Garage Petitioners Have More Than Enough Signatures

They needed ten percent, they achieved 22 percent. The Borough group petitioning to have the $105,000 bond ordinance for design of the Tulane Street parking garage voted on in referendum, obtained many more signatures than it needed

Borough Council must make the next move. Council will hold its regular agenda session this Thursday at 8 in Borough Hall. Friday is the deadline for inclusion of questions on the November general election ballot. To meet that deadline, Council must pass a resolution Thursday asking Mercer County to place the question on the ballot.

If Council doesn't act Thursday, there will have to be a special election after the November election. It is understood that Council, as well as the citizen group, wants the measure on the regular ballot, in the interests of a speedy and economical resolution. Extra elections cost money.

Council has no choice but to go along with the successful petition, nor does the county. Last Friday, John B. Miller, chairman of the Princeton Borough Property Tax Protest Petitioners, submitted two volumes of signatures to the tax office. He reported signatures representing $83,642,400, or approximately 23.48 percent of the total assessed valuation of property within the Borough. He needed ten percent, by law.

Working over the week-end, assessor Stuart Robson Jr. checked the signatures and properties and reported a slightly lower total of $79 million, or about 22 percent of the $356,251,624 total assessed valuation.

Until voters decide in November, Council cannot move ahead on design of the garage.

Princeton Public Schools to Open Next Week With Johnson Park Students All Reassigned

Princeton's five public schools will open for the new year next Wednesday, September 9.

Some things are the same, some are new:

- Johnson Park School has been closed, and its pupils re-assigned: 90 to Community Park and 40 to Riverside.
- School officials report with pleasure that seven non-tenured teachers who were "riffed" last spring, have been called back to work.

- The night that school opens – next Wednesday – there will be dedication ceremonies, starting at 8, at the renovated high school.
- A new, computerized bus scheduling system is in efect, and children who will ride by bus, have all been sent passes.
- By the end of this week, New Jersey's Commissioner of Education, Fred Burke, is expected to comment on Princeton's appeal from the ruling of an administrative law judge that prohibits Princeton from transferring two gym teachers.

"We'll be a new Community Park, because of Johnson Park," is the smiling welcome of CP's principal, Norma Gumbiner, who was principal of JP and moved to CP along with 90 of her young friends.

"After a month, everybody will be 'CP' — kids, parents, staff. A child is a child, it's hard to tell the difference between a CP child and a JP child, and the parents will begin to see it, too. The two groups – CP and JP – make the school a different population, but it will be no different in terms of the kids."

With Mrs. Gumbiner and the JP children, came four teachers: Gladys Steinman (third grade); Mary Federico (fifth grade); Ken Raybuck (music) and Ann Johanson (library). Plus secretary Sandy Jefferson. Helen Cleary, who had taught at JP, has retired.

The PTO will have co-presidents, reflecting the welcome to JP families. The JP president is Eva Collins; the CP president is Peggy Killmer. The PTO's board will also combine the two schools.

"CP is a neat school," Mrs. Gumbiner says. "It's in such a central location: the 'Y' has an after-school program here, which will help a lot of our kids, and the 'Y' is close, anyway. So is the library, the Shopping Center — you don't have to have a car. This is a tremendous advantage for kids."

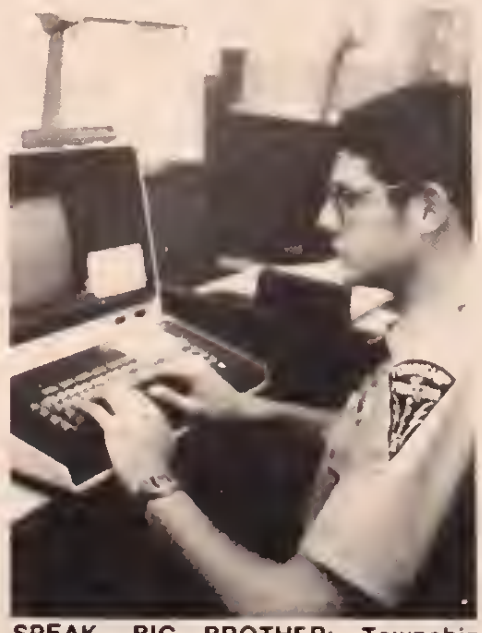
Township Police Finding Computers Are Essential Tools in Crime Fight

A hot summer Saturday night in Princeton Township. From inside a dimly lit house come the sounds of a husband and wife quarreling. The quarrel escalates into a fight, punctuated by a threat, "I'll kill you."

A frightened neighbor calls Township Police and gives the desk man the address of the dispute. The desk man alerts a patrol car, and then punches the address into a terminal connected to the Township's IBM System 34 computer. Within seconds he is presented a history of all police dealings at that address: previous domestic quarrels, arrests for assault of an officer and for disorderly behavior, and a complaint for the illegal discharge of a firearm. The desk man immediately dispatches another patrol car to the scene and notifies the police in both cars that they should proceed with caution.

The police investigation described above is hypothetical. Even though the Township does have an IBM System 34 computer, purchased earlier this year for $80,000, the police do not yet have access to it. And even when the police do have a terminal connecting them to the computer, they may not be able to use it in exactly the same way outlined in the hypothetical case. But they might.

One thing is sure: Township Police, who entered the computer age a year and a half ago when they purchased an Olivetti terminal that enables them to gain instant access to the National Crime Information Center and the State Crime Information Center, are finding that computers can be just as handy in the fight against crime as a two-way radio or a patrol car.



SPEAK, BIG BROTHER: Township Patrolman Mark Emann takes time out from his dispatching duties to request information on a motor vehicle from the National Crime Information Center. The system generally responds within a minute, and often in as few as 10 seconds. Township police make hundreds of such inquiries every month.

"Its greatest value," says Lieutenant Anthony Pinelli, a 20-year veteran on the Township force who oversees the computer operation, "is having information immediately at our fingertips. We saw other departments around here that had the computer and we realized it was an excellent tool—really almost an essential tool today—for police work."

With the Township's current capabilities, police can extract from the FBI's central computer in Phoenix, Arizona, motor vehicle information on any license plate from any state, including whether or not the car has been stolen. By entering the name of an individual in the computer they can find out just as easily whether or not that person is wanted for arrest anywhere in the country.

Earlier this summer juvenile officer Jerry Offredo was driving in the Poe Road area when he noticed a young man sitting in a parked station wagon. Acting on a hunch, Det. Offredo radioed the license plate number to police headquarters. The information on the video display terminal showed that the car had been stolen from Hartford, Conn. The youth was arrested and sent to Mercer County Detention Center in lieu of $2,500 bail.

Planning Board Appearance Delayed to October by PCH

Architect William Dix wanted to make his plans and drawings more complete, and so Princeton Community Housing, Inc. has postponed until October its appearance before the Planning Board for site plan review. PCH was originally on the agenda for next Tuesday's meeting.

PCH plans an 89-unit apartment house for the elderly and handicapped on the eastern portion of the parking lot next to the public library. The nonprofit organization expects "conditional commitment" from Federal Housing and Urban Development officials by the end of September.

Since site plan approval is not required before HUD's "conditional commitment," PCH decided to give its architect more time.

THE VIEW FROM HERE: A TOWN TOPICS Editorial

Martin Lombardo owes a lot of explanations to the elderly people of the Borough, whose champion he has always professed to be, and we have a suggestion about a way he might make amends for what happened to them.

As a Council member in the 1970's, Mr. Lombardo opposed property revaluation, although reassessments hadn't been done since 1964. (He likes to brag, today, about that opposition.)

But suppose revaluation had been done, say, in 1970 and at frequent intervals thereafter. Elderly home-owners and people on small, fixed incomes would then have had a chance to adjust gradually to the inevitable tax increases that reflect the wildly increased market value of their homes.

Of course, you may be a fortunate taxpayer in a position to argue it the other way. You can smile with pleasure at all those lovely years of relatively low taxes on a house worth a great deal in the marketplace. So, you can shrug, your taxes have now increased from $2,100 to $5,000 in a single year. Uncomfortable, sure, but it was a piece of cake for a long time.

By the evidence, most people, and almost all elderly people on fixed incomes, just cannot take that view. The Borough's assessor reports anguished taxpayers saying, "Don't do it this way again! Reassess more often!" They would rather have taxes that go up by $200 or $300 a year every two or three years, than a breathless leap all at once.

Back to Mr. Lombardo. He refused the gradual approach. He was not, of course, the only Council member who took that line, as he is quick to point out. But he is the one now making all the noise.

Much of this noise is being aimed, and rightfully so, at the P.R.C. Jacobs firm hired by Council, as the lowest bidder, to handle the revaluation. There is no question that many tax bills contain errors that should be rectified.

But whether or not another revaluation is ordered, the bottom line for the great majority of property owners, including the elderly, is simply not going to change. Higher taxes, reflected by the increase in property values, are here to stay, and it's time to find a more permanent solution.

For several years, Mr. Lombardo was in the real-estate business and over a period of time, worked for many Princeton real-estate firms. We think he could apply this experience to working out creative solutions for individual home-owners — elderly or not.

He spoke at length at the League of Women Voters housing meeting in July. But what we propose would not involve speeches, or singling out hapless elderly people and arranging for pictures of their private homes in the newspapers.

What we suggest, then, is a positive attitude. Let Mr. Lombardo provide practical, sensible, concrete help. Let him sit down in the living-rooms of individual property-owners and say, "You have an excellent investment here, in your house. Let's see what we can do so you can benefit from it. Let's see whether this — or this — or this — will work." In short, a positive, helpful attitude, rather than a negative one.

Borough Council member Barbara Hill has already done this. She asked the Borough attorney whether the Borough could legally excuse certain home-owners from paying at least the municipal share of their taxes, in exchange for an equity position in the real estate.

Regretfully, the answer was "No," but she tried, and will be trying again to find solutions to the problem.

The solutions — if there are any — might be different for different people, depending on family situations, the property itself, and so on. It might be a tedious job: research, discussion, frustration.

But we think Mr. Lombardo owes it to the elderly home owner to try.

Borough Council Will Not Ask Mercer County To Throw Out Revaluation by P.R.C. Jacobs

After a brief but turbulent confrontation last Thursday, Borough Council declined the request of the Borough-Township Tax Revolt Committee to ask Mercer County to throw out the recent revaluation.

"The argument over whether there should be reassessment isn't a Borough question, explained Council member Barbara Hill. "The county was on our backs for a long time to get us to do it. If there are errors — and I'm sure there are errors — that is a Borough problem. But we can't just say 'this stinks' and have no re-assessment at all."

Martin Lombardo, co-chairman with George Pinelli of the Committee, told Council members he had a series of questions for them. Nelson van den Blink, presiding in the absence of Mayor Robert W. Cawley, expressed doubts about a dialogue. Ms. Hill remonstrated with Mr. Lombardo, saying that she and others on Council expected a presentation from the Committee.

"I don't intend to get into a question-and-answer session," she declared. "This is not the appropriate forum for that."

Kester Pierson, acting Borough attorney in the absence of Edwin Schmierer, advised that it was "inappropriate" for Council to respond because it could prejudice future action.

Mr. Lombardo's questions related chiefly to Council's responsibility for details of the contract with P.R.C. Jacobs, the firm that performed the revaluation for both Borough and Township. He asked whether Council had reviewed all the details of the contract, whether each Council member had reviewed the quality of Jacobs' work and whose responsibility it was to see that the terms of the contract were executed.

Jacobs Refused Admittance

An elderly couple on Jefferson Road who have been used by Martin Lombardo as examples of a family whose house was never entered by an employee of the P.R.C. Jacobs revaluation firm, actually refused to allow the Jacobs employee inside, it has been revealed.

Borough Council member Barbara Hill told last Thursday's work session that she discovered this when she examined the couple's property card in the assessor's office.

The refusal of the couple to admit the Jacobs representative has also been reported by assessor Stuart Robson Jr.

Mr. Pierson explained to Mr. Lombardo that it was not necessary for Council to be familiar with the minute details of the contract. He said the contract itself is the document that would decide whether the firm had performed according to its terms.

Mr. Lombardo protested that the contract between the Borough and Jacobs was not "just any contract" because of the impact of revaluation on the town. Each Council member, he said, "should make sure of the quality of the work."

According to state law, a municipality must award a contract to the "lowest, responsible bidder," Mr. Pierson explained. He said that Council felt Jacobs to be a qualified and competent firm when it awarded the contract, and must now satisfy itself that the contract was satisfactorily completed before Jacobs was paid.

"Is Council prepared to certify tonight to the taxpayers that specifics in the contract were completed?" Mr. Lombardo demanded, but Mr. Pierson said, "I wouldn't be prepared to make that statement."

Inappropriate Questions. Although Mr. Lombardo's questions often took the form of cross-examinations of Council — particularly of Ms. Hill — and although he protested what he called "lack of dialogue," he nevertheless said his group wanted Council to join in asking the county to withdraw the revaluation.

When he referred to "hundreds of lies" on the part of Jacobs, and charged Council with not having checked the firm's work, Mrs. van den Blink protested; "I don't think this is appropriate; you're making assumptions."

Council member Richard Woodbridge, who is a lawyer, said:

"These aren't the kinds of questions I would respond to. It's like a set-up, and knowing you have retained a lawyer, the tone and content of these questions make me wonder whether it's appropriate to respond. Is it wise to discuss this on an emotional basis? What we need are facts."

Mr. Lombardo said his group did have facts, and denied that he had talked with his lawyers before coming before Council.

From the audience of half a dozen, Robert L. Smith, 15 Bainbridge, urged Council to "see that the errors are fixed up, and don't attack revaluation as a whole.

"My taxes went up 25 percent. I don't see hard evidence that evaluation has hurt people, as you say it has."

Louis Verbeyst demanded, "What about people whose taxes have gone up 100 or 300 percent?"

"I wish mine had!" Mr. Smith retorted. "It would mean my property is more valuable."

To Mr. Smith's remark that houses were now assessed on average of 91 percent of the market, Mr. Pinelli said, "That's a bunch of bunk! I surveyed a street; a house assessed at $235,000 is next to one assessed at $60,000. Who's going to buy the $235,000 one?"

"I ask compassion for irote citizens," Mr. Verbeyst said. "You're not happy and neither are we. Let'a work together on a friendly basis."

Farewell to Summer

Let the rain fall
When it may.
But not, I hope,
On Labor Day.

This weekend will be the last chance for most summer vacationers to enjoy the sun, if it comes out of hiding by then.

The hazy, somewhat overcast weather that has hung around for the last several days may not be pushed away until the weekend. Showers are a distinct possibility on any one of the next few days, and certainly would be a welcome sight. So would the sun if it can return for summer's last long weekend.

$1,500 NECKLACE STOLEN

From Stockton Apartment. A gold, opera-length necklace with a blue stone, valued at $1,500, was stolen last week from a Stockton Street apartment.

Other pieces of jewelry taken from the victim's bedroom were a gold choker chain with small pearls valued at $200 and a $160 pair of gold earrings. There were no signs of forced entry, police said.

Alarming. "What is most alarming," commented Chief Michael Carnevale, "is that week after week at these press conferences we give information regarding thefts. It's become an accepted pattern of life style today. It's real shocking when people can't feel secure in their homes."

Chief Carnevale then reported a burglary and theft in an Olden Lane home between August 23-31.

Someone entered the home during that week and removed silver articles from a dining room. There was no forced entry and Chief Carnevale said that the police investigation is continuing.

Silver was also stolen from an Ober Road home in the Township.

Police report that the dining and living rooms had been ransacked, after entry was gained by first cutting a storm screen and then breaking a pane of glass in a side window.

Some sterling silver flatware was taken but police say they are waiting for a complete list from the victim. The theft was reported last Tuesday.

Someone cut a rear window screen early last week to enter the Fisherman Fish Market and Restaurant, 46 Leigh Avenue.

Taken, police said, was a cash register containing $4.55. It was later recovered, damaged, approximately 50 feet away behind 256 John Street. Ptl. James Vandermark investigated.

OWL AND PIG STOLEN

In Separate Thefts. An owl and a pig were stolen last week in separate thefts in Princeton.

A Harris Street resident told Township police that a concrete owl sculpture was stolen from the front door stoop. Weighing between 80 and 100 pounds, and approximately 20 inches high, the sculpture is valued at $700.

An English lead pig statue, weighing 100 pounds and valued at $500 was reported stolen Thursday from the front lawn of a Mercer Street home. Borough police are investigating that theft.

Two aluminum extension ladders were taken last week in the Borough, one a $300, 40-foot model stolen from a Mercer Street home where a painting contractor reported the theft. A 32-foot ladder valued at $160 was taken Monday from an unlocked garage on Wilton Street.

A Hopewell resident listed the theft of a $1,000 canoe. Police said that the 17-foot, green plastic canoe had been chained to a tree at the south end of the Magie Apartments building off Faculty Road. The chain was left at the site.

A cord of wood that had been delivered and placed near the roadway in front of a Greenholm home was stolen Sunday between midnight and 8 a.m. It is valued at $110. The same day, police received a report of a stolen $224 chain saw from a Western Way garage.

Car Lights Stolen. A Princeton resident told police that rear tailights, valued at $70, had been removed from his 1971 VW, while it was parked between 3 and 10 p.m. Friday in a Palmer Square lot.

Two Borough meter heads were twisted off their stands on Spring Street between 9 Saturday morning and 10:21 Monday when the theft was discovered. Police report that the heads are worth $130 each.

There was another Oriental rug theft on the university campus. During the weekend, police and Princeton University Security investigated the theft of a rug from Maclean House, less than a month after an expensive Oriental rug was taken from Prospect. Police added they have no value or description of the rug.

In another campus theft, an employee at Frick Lab told police that his $150 tool box was stolen Friday.

A Princeton resident lost his gym bag to a thief while be was in a Nassau Street restaurant. He told police that he had placed his bag down while sitting at a counter. Inside were books, personal papers and a check book.

The week also contained the usual bicycle thefts. Three were listed in the police docket, including the theft Friday of a $150, 10-speed model from in front of the victim's home on Witherspoon Street. It was unlocked.

A locked, $250 woman's bike was taken from the corner of Nassau Street and Riverside Drive — a chain had been cut — and a girl's three-speed was stolen from Nassau Street near the taxi stand. Taken Thursday, it had been locked to a post.

CRIMINAL MISCHIEF

And Assault. A drive through Princeton was not a pleasant one for a Ewing couple last week.

As they were traveling on Mercer Road near Marquand Park Thursday evening, several objects were thrown at their car. One, police said, hit the driver's wife; a second shattered the rear window. The victim did not require medical treatment.

Police labeled the incident as criminal mischief and assault.

Early Saturday morning Borough police transported a Princeton resident to Princeton Medical Center where he was treated for a split lip.

The victim, whom police declined to identify, told them that he had been punched in the mouth but didn't know who his assailant was. The incident is alleged to have taken place around 2 a.m. at the Ivy Inn on Nassau Street.

NUDE MAN SIGHTED

In Hospital Parking Lot. A few weeks ago a nude man was seen by two women in Marquand Park; on Sunday an employee of the Princeton Medical Center reported seeing a nude man shortly after noon walking in a parking lot.

According to police, the employee saw the nude, while walking from the hospital parking lot on Franklin Avenue. She described him as 16 to 18, completely nude except for sneakers and white socks.

Police said the naked youth continued his walk through the lot and disappeared. Ptl. Randy Sutton and Ptl. Michael Taylor are investigating.

LICENSE SUSPENDED

At Marv's Lounge. For allegedly allowing and permitting lewd and immoral activity on its premises June 12, Marv's Lounge, 18 Lytle Street, has had its liquor license suspended for 48 days.

The suspension, imposed by the Division of Alcoholic Beverage Control state agency, will end at 2 a.m., October 15. According to police, owner Marvin Trotman pleaded non vult (no defense) to the charge.

EIGHTEEN ARE FINED

For Speeding. Eighteen Princeton area residents were fined Monday in Borough traffic court by Judge Russell W. Annich Jr. for speeding.

They are Robert Croghan, Sunset Road, Belle Mead, $22; Mark I. Matsil, 47 Stonwyck Road, Belle Mead, $20; Robert Spiegel, 6 Temple Terrace, Lawrenceville, $35; Robert J.

News Of The THEATRES

PLAYS ARE ANNOUNCED
By McCarter for 1981-82.

A six-play series, starting September 11 and continuing through May 23, has been announced by Crossroads, the company of black professional actors in New Brunswick. The theatre is at 320 Memorial Parkway.

Crossroads will open its season with the contemporary classic, "No Place to be Somebody," by Charles Gordone. The play, which won a Pulitzer Prize, is described as "a quick-witted portrait of city life, a rock-'em, sock-em' black-black comedy, bursting with life, laughter and anger." It will play from September 11 through October 11.

The next play will be "Norman, Is That You?", which audiences may remember as a movie with Redd Foxx and Pearl Bailey. It will play from October 23 through November 22.

Over the holiday season, Crossroads has scheduled James Baldwin's "The Amen

OFFERS

25%

ANNUAL INTEREST NOW AND UP TO $2,000 TAX FREE INTEREST STARTING OCTOBER 1st

25% NOW

Sign up today for Princeton Bank's High Rate Certificate and earn 25% annual interest on your funds until October 1st. The minimum investment is $5,000. Princeton Bank's High Rate Certificate is a repurchase agreement backed by U.S. Government or U.S. Government guaranteed obligations. It is not a deposit and is not insured by the FDIC. Princeton Bank's High Rate Certificate gives you a head start on tax free interest starting on October 1st. Interest on funds not transferred to an "All Savers" Certificate on October 1st will be forfeited. A written disclosure statement describing the repurchase agreement program can be obtained at the Bank's offices.

TAX FREE INTEREST

STARTING OCTOBER 1st.

On October 1, 1981 Princeton Bank will automatically transfer principal and interest on your High Rate Certificate into a new 1 year "All Savers" Certificate. Up to $2,000 of your interest on the "All Savers" Certificate is free from Federal income taxes on a joint return — $1,000 if filed as an individual. The interest you earn will be the highest rate allowable by law — 70% of the 1 year Treasury Bill rate at the time you purchase your "All Savers" Certificate. Deposits in "All Savers" Certificates are insured up to $100,000 by the FDIC. Substantial penalties are required for early redemption on "All Savers" Certificates.

Inquire at any of our offices for details on tax advantages of this program.

Corner," a Gospel musical about a self-annointed female minister. Jazz and spirituals are incorporated into this story of family life.

Black History Month will be celebrated with a play, to be announced, focusing on the life of either Martin Luther King Jr., or Paul Robeson. The play will run from January 29 through February 28.

In the spring, Crossroads will present LeRoi Jones' "The Dutchman," often described as the most important black play to come out of the 1960's. It describes a chance meeting — or is it chance? — between two people who may be more than they seem.

The season will conclude with a production of either "Livin' Fat" by Judi Ann Mason, or "Home," by Samm-Art Williams, April 23 through May 23. Subscription information may be obtained by writing Crossroads, 320 Memorial Parkway, New Brunswick, N.J. 08901, or calling 201-249-5560.

DANCES, FOR SUMMER

At Acting Studio. "Field and Stream," a suite of summer dances choreographed by Mary Pat Robertson, will be presented at The Acting Studio, 185 Nassau Street, at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, September 25 and 26.

Music for the dances will include Balinese "gender wayang," Bach, Schubert and sounds described as "natural." Dancers will be Francine Landes, Janell Byrne, Mary Pat Robertson, John Watson Stewart, Nancy Thiel, Darryl Williams and Laurie Zomermaand. Michael Byrne has designed the lighting. The suggested contribution is $3.50 for adults, $2 for students.

Ms. Robertson teaches at the Princeton Ballet Society and Peddie School. She had performed with the Princeton Ballet, the Pennington Players and the Gail Kaplan Dancers. A scholarship student at the Merce Cunningham School, she has performed with Bertrand Raison and Carolyn Lord.

AUDITIONS SCHEDULED

For Choral Group. The Princeton Pro Musica invites singers to audition for its 1981-82 season.

The 75-voice group, directed by Frances F. Slade, performs three major concerts a year, usually with full orchestra.

McCarter to Pay Tax?

McCarter Theatre shows films in Kresge auditorium in the Frick chemical building on the Princeton University campus, for fun — and profit. The fact that tickets are sold and McCarter makes (or hopes to) money, has alerted Borough Council, ever hungry for income.

The Borough has a theatre license fee based on the number of seats in the theatre; for example, the Garden pays $750 a year for the 792 seats in its twin theatres.

Princeton University, of course, is a tax-exempt institution, but McCarter's theatre building is taxed just like any other piece of property. Can the Kresge film series ride on the University's status, or is McCarter liable to the fee charged commercial theatres? It's a nice cliff-hanger in the best theatrical tradition.

Borough clerk Penelope Edwards and Borough attorney Kester Pierson will research the script.

The first concert this season, scheduled for Saturday, November 21, at the Lawrenceville School's Kirby Arts Center, will include the Mass in B-flat, "Therisien-messe," by Joseph Haydn; the oratorio "Jephtha," by Carissimi; and motets by Heinrich Schuetz.

The chorus rehearses on Tuesday evenings at Christ Congregation, Walnut Lane and Houghton Street. Auditions for new members will be held September 8-14 at Westminster Choir College, on the lower level of Talbott Library. For an audition appointment, call 883-1890.

SING? DANCE?

Audition! Songs from the traditional English Music Hall, or popular songs from the Gay Nineties period in the United States, or from the Roaring Twenties anywhere, will all be part of the Sixth Annual English Music Hall production of the Mercer College Theatre, Mercer County Community College.

Singers and dancers are invited to audition this Wednesday at 7 p.m. in Kelsey Theatre on MCCC's West Windsor campus. Performances are scheduled for September 19, 23, 24, 25 and 26, and will be directed by Jason Barnes of the National Theatre of Great Britain.

To audition, you must be at least 18. Singers with acting skills and some dancing ability, should come prepared with their own sheet music. Presentations should not exceed three minutes. An accompanist will be available.

Additional information may be obtained by calling 586-4800.

DRAMA!

At a Discount. The word "discount" has a faintly "off" flavor, but when it comes to theatre tickets and a discount date deadline that lets you see five plays for the price of four, the flavor improves noticeably.

News of the Theatres

discounts. If you subscribe before September 25, you get that five for four price, and also priority ticket purchasing privileges for McCarter's annual holiday production of "A Christmas Carol."

Nagle Jackson, the theatre's artistic director, will open with the American premiere of Alan Ayckbourn's "Just Between Ourselves," previewing September 30 and opening formally on October 2.

It's being billed as "a wicked British comedy" in which husbands, wives and even a mother-in-law maneuver around a series of birthday parties and the sale of a car.

Next is a revival of Tennessee Williams' "The Night of the Iguana," to be directed by Bill Ludel, recently of the Long Wharf Theatre. The drama, set in a run-down tourist hotel in Mexico, will play from October 28 through November 15.

McCarter's third offering will be "Keystone," the new musical about the Keystone Kops studios of silent film days. Lance Mulcahy, who did last season's off-Broadway, "Shakespeare's Cabaret," has written the music, John McKellar has done the book and Dion McGregor, the lyrics. "Keystone" will play January 13 through January 31.

For the fourth production, McCarter will have the Greek director Spyros Evangelatos of the Amphitheatre in Athens, directing Euripides' "Iphigenia At Aulis." It will play from February 24 through March 14.

The season will end with Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man," which will come to McCarter after a five-state tour. It's due at McCarter on March 26.

READY TO DANCE?

Classes Announced. A new Boys' Class in ballet and a Modern Dance Workshop and Improvisation class are innovations this year at the Princeton Ballet Society School, now warming up for the start of its 28th season on Thursday, September 24.

Registration for new students will be held September 15, 16 and 17 between 3:30 and 6 at the Princeton studio, 262 Alexander Street; the Cranbury studio in the Old School building on Main Street and the New Brunswick studio, 103 Church Street. All former students are asked to register by September 14.

The boys' class will be taught by Dermot Burke, ballet master of the Princeton Ballet Company and former principal dancer with the City Center Joffrey Company. The modern dance workshop and improvisation class will be given by Sherry Alban, who is a choreographer as well as a dancer and teacher.

Ballet classes will be offered for kindergarten beginners through adult professionals. Modern dance classes have been scheduled for beginners in the fifth grade, through adult students. Jazz classes will be for high school students and adults only, at beginner through advanced levels. The school will again offer dance exercise.

Judy Leviton will direct the 15-member faculty during the sabbatical leave of the school's founder, Audree Estey. Ms. Leviton was made an associate director of the Princeton Ballet Society last year, and is a former member of the Metropolitan Opera Ballet, the New York City Opera Ballet and the American Ballet Theatre.

The faculty will also include Jane Miller Gifford, associate director of the Princeton Ballet Society since 1978, and a former principal dancer with the National and Harkness Ballets. Sandra Burton and Carol Estey are newcomers to the teaching staff this year. Ms. Burton has been a member of the Chuck Davis Dance Company for 11 years. Ms. Estey has had featured roles in "Jesus Christ, Superstar," Liza Minelli's "The Act" and "Liza 1980," and has also appeared in films and on television.

Additional information and application forms are available by calling the Princeton Ballet Society at 921-7758, between 10 and 5, Mondays through Fridays.

The Princeton Ballet Society School and the Princeton Ballet Company are maintained by the Princeton Ballet Society, a non-profit educational corporation.

TO READ NEW DRAMA

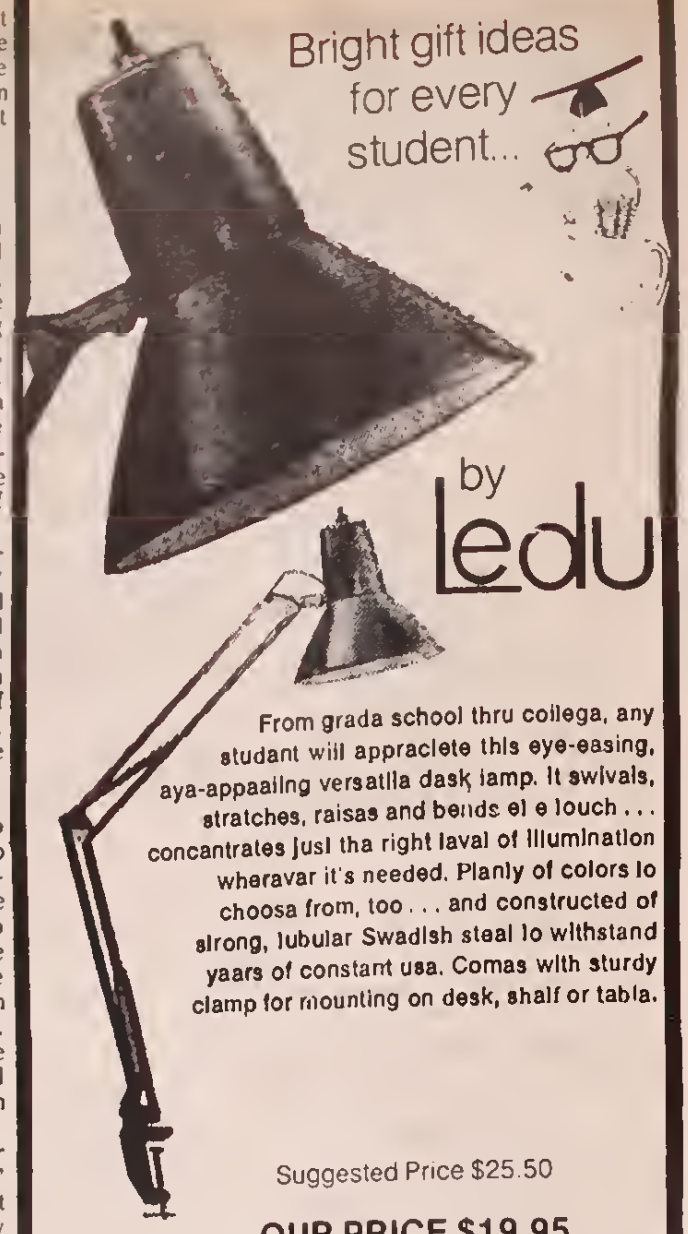
In Trenton, Princeton playwright S. Michael Schnessel's new drama, "Galatea's Hands," will be given its first public reading on Monday and Tuesday, September 14 and 15 at 8:30 at the new Mill Hill Playhouse in Trenton. The theatre is on the corner of Front and Montgomery Streets, in the restored Mill Hill section of the city.

The full-length play — recommended for adults only — features Vikki Mason and Michael Lawrence as model and sculptor, involved in a midnight modeling session which becomes a time of anguish and terror. Paul G. Saunders will read the stage directions.

The reading is designed to help Mr. Schnessel develop the play for future productions, and members of the audience will be invited to discuss the work with the playwright. No admission fee will be charged, although donations will be accepted. The reading is part of the "Eyes of Trenton" Festival sponsored by the Trenton Artists Workshop Association.

Mr. Schnessel is the author of "The Serpent Smiles," which had its premiere last year in a production by Princeton Community Players. The recipient of a playwriting fellowship from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, Mr. Schnessel has won a number of national awards. His play, "Cassie's Miracle," won second prize in the New England Theatre Conference contest.

Bright gift ideas for every student... by ledu



From grade school thru college, any student will appreciate this eye-easing, eye-appealing versatile desk lamp. It swivels, stretches, raises and bends at a touch . . . concentrates just the right level of illumination wherever it's needed. Plenty of colors to choose from, too . . . and constructed of strong, tubular Swedish steel to withstand years of constant use. Comes with sturdy clamp for mounting on desk, shelf or table.

Sakala Finding Much to Be Excited About, Entering His Third Year as PHS Principal

Talking with Princeton High Principal John Sakala, it's hard to tell what is most exciting for this genial bear of a man — his own, new "child study team," the 15 Apple teaching computers, the "gorgeous!" new furniture he picked out for the new Student Center, or the deep admiration he still feels, as he enters his third year on the job, for the "very sound" basic curriculum he found at Princeton High.

He set up his own child-study team because he found New Jersey's special-education laws "very narrow." Children must have severe deficiencies before state money can be spent on them.

"But I want to expand into a kind of grey area — the kid with the God-given talent to be successful — but who isn't, and the kid whose life is disrupted and who finds unproductive things to do, like getting into the drug scene or hanging around — these are the kids we want to deal with."

The principal has named two of his staff to this new team — Virginia Euell and Constance Vieland — and will choose a third when he sees what kinds of kids turn up. Ms. Euell is a PHS science teacher and was acting principal of the Middle School. Dr. Vieland is a psychologist.

Mr. Sakala thinks there are about 35 PHS students who will be in the program; of these, 10 or 12 are what he calls "top-outs": the student who failed English, but got the top score of 800 on the verbal section of the SATs — "very bright, but unsuccessful, probably bored."

"Ginny and Connie will watch these kids — meet with them, re-design their programs if that's needed, deal with their attendance records, even deal with their families.

"Ginny works very effectively with kids, and appeals to certain ones who aren't successful. She's developed a profile of students we identified last year, meeting with guidance counselors, getting test results, teacher opinion and so on. We've already had a request from parents to get their child into the program."

Linda Smith, Resource Room teacher, will guide the Individual Student Education Plan. The 19 incoming freshmen who scored below minimum level on the Minimum Basic Skills tests in ninth grade, will have their own Educational Plan. It will show how the school proposes to remedy what the students lack, so they can take the tests successfully in 11th grade. For graduation, all students must pass the Minimum Basic Skills Test.

Classes will be kept small, so that students with problems can fit in easily. Compensatory education has been expanded to include every part of the curriculum. Through the New Jersey Writing Project, the school has a reading-writing workshop. "Developmental Reading" will be offered for the first time this fall. It's for students who read well and want to read better, with the emphasis on comprehension. Jay Lang will teach.

"In my first year, I thought curriculum was the answer for these kids," Mr. Sakala muses. "Now, what I want to do is attach them to the school — take them by the hand and make them try out for the musical, establish the kind of rapport that will give them something they don't want to lose."

Emphasis on Computers. "Computers are where the school should be," Mr. Sakala says happily. "Kids get computer literacy at the Middle School, so they know how to turn a computer on and off and operate it. I want them able to write a simple program. I want them to program a computer to solve a quadratic equation — de-emphasize computational skills you do with a pencil.

"Everyone taking math. should become literate in computers."

And in fact, all math. students — even those taking compensatory math — will get 30 periods of computer experience. They will have five days in the classroom, then a sixth day in the computer center for instruction under Toni Nielsen. This applies to all students except those in Math. Analysis and Calculus.

"All 15 of our Apples were taken out for the summer by teachers who wanted to learn about them," Mr. Sakala says. "I want to extend computer use to social studies — for demographic research, for example — and get the science department to stop tedious, time-consuming work and computerize it. We plan to use computers in the guidance department, feeding grades, schedules — everything — into computers."

That "gorgeous!" new Student Center furniture hasn't arrived yet, but the Center itself is the area across from the cafeteria, formed by knocking out partitions to make one long, big room.

"You know, this is one helluva high school!" Mr. Sakala exclaims with pleasure. "It has a very sound basic curriculum — foreign languages, math., English departments are extremely well-organized, using the best features of a lot of good education programs.

"It's got everything for everyone, this school. We can really attend to kids who would go by the boards in any other school. We've got a small enough population so we can get on top of a problem in a very successful way. Where kids have problems, and are 'outside,' we're going to take them by the hand and bring them in."

—Katharine H. Bretnall

PHS' New Policy on Absences Not "Harsh or Punitive," Sakala Says

"Our new policy of allowing only 18 absences a year, is an in-between position," explains PHS principal John Sakala. "Some school districts are much stricter, some looser. We want people to know that some things in our new graduation requirements, like this policy on absences, are edicts from the state -- we had no choice, although we did have some flexibility.

"In a town like Princeton, kids may have to be taken out of class for family reasons. We want parents to let us know in advance, and we'll give kids assignments ahead of time. It won't be a harsh, punitive kind of policy."

PHS has gone far beyond state graduation requirements in the "course profile" category, Mr. Sakala said.

"Every kid in the school will have an outline of every course and the procedures that will be used to evaluate a student's work. You'll know exactly where you stand, all year long. No sudden research papers, no unpleasant surprises. Some teachers have always done this, but maybe not for the whole year. Now, all teachers will, and we'll make it very consistent, right through the year."

PSH teachers worked last year during their Professional Growth Time to write these "course proficiency" outlines and Linda Smith, Resource Room teacher, tied them all into a harmonious whole.

In addition, Mr. Atkin and Ms. Terzo were each fined $15 for no license or registration in possession.

Tracy E. Lawler, 440 Walnut Lane, paid $25 for careless driving; Jon Kiplinger, 55 Philip Drive, $35 for illegal backing or turning in street, and Elias Gibbs, 156 John Street, $30, noisy muffler.

In Township court last week, Judge Sydney Souter fined Kathleen Daniele, 104 Washington Road, $40 for passing on the right. Gertrude Tennyson, RD 1, Princeton, was fined $40 for a stop sign violation, while Juliette Ptoughny, Bedens Brook Road, was fined $25 as an unlicensed driver.

DRIVER IS INJURED

In Route 27 Collision. Eighteen-year old Richard W. Jesser Jr., 540 Prospect Avenue, was injured last week when his car collided with another attempting to turn into a driveway.

Mr. Jesser was treated at Princeton Medical Center for contusions and abrasions of the head. Police described his 1979 sedan as a total loss.

Pfl. John Seeley ticketed the other driver, Julie Turi, 22, of Kingston, for failure to give a proper signal. According to the investigation, the Turi car attempted to turn into a driveway some 300 yards from Riverside Drive and crossed over into Mr. Jesser's path. After impact, the Turi car came to rest on the right side of the road, 40 feet away; the Jesser car was pushed back 44 feet. The mishap occurred at 1:24 Thursday morning.

Tot Runs Into Car. A three-year old child broke away from her mother's hand Saturday morning, ran into the roadway from behind a parked car on Jefferson Road and was struck by a car just pulling away from a parking space.

Adele Lieber, 16 Harris Road, was treat for contusions and abrasions of the leg and hip at the Medical Center. She was struck by the front bumper of a car driven by Joline J. Tanzdseh of RFD 1, Princeton.

Borough Police Chief Concerned About Number of Noise Complaints

As head of the Borough police department, Chief Michael Carnevale is concerned about keeping Princeton free from crime and violence; as a citizen, he has also, on numerous occasions, voiced concern about the quality of life in Princeton.

That quality is suffering, Chief Carnevale observed Monday, from excessive noise. "The number of noise complaints have become more and more frequent," he said. "It indicates neighbors are not very considerate of the rest of the neighborhood. We've gotten an awful lot of complaints."

As an example, Chief Carnevale listed seven noise complaints his department received last week.

A midnight fight and disturbance on Lytle Street; loud stereo music on Olden Street at 12:31 a.m., on Lilac Lane at 12:45 a.m. and again on Wiggins Street and Park Place at 2:52 and 12:30 in the morning. A noisy group leaving a bar in the Tulane-Spring Street area and a loud party at 2:15 in the morning on Hodge Road.

"It points out the inconsiderate nature of some persons who have no concern for the time of day or night that they might be disturbing their neighbors," Chief Carnevale said.

Once more, Chief Carnevale returned to his personal view about the erosion of the quality of life in Princeton. He summed up the trend he sees by concluding, "People just don't give a damn."

MAN ARRESTED

For Shotgun Possession. Leslie Spruill Jr., 49, 25 Marlboro Row, was arrested Sunday and charged by Borough police with unlawful possession of a firearm.

Police, responding to a 9:25 p.m. anonymous call reporting a disturbance on Lytle Street, confiscated a .410 shotgun from the trunk of Spruill's car and three shells from his pocket. Police said that Spruill had threatened to use the gun against his stepson during a domestic dispute.

Marijuana Charge. Twenty minutes later, Borough police charged two with possession of more than 25 grams of marijuana.

Julie H. Miller, 21, 41 Spring Street, and Robert M. Muehleisen, 20, 106 Howard Way, Pennington, were arrested by Pt. Victor Fasanella and Ptl. Mark Stillitano. The officers had responded to a 9:44 call reporting suspicious persons in a second-floor hallway at 41 Spring.

According to Capt. Theodore Lewis, the two officers walked through Miss Miller's apartment door to talk about the call when Muehleisen allegedly walked by carrying two small plastic bags containing green vegetation in plain view. As a result the two were arrested and charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance.

The suspicious persons were gone on the arrival of police, Capt. Lewis said.

A 16-year-old Ewing juvenile was charged last week with shoplifting. Police said that the youth allegedly concealed a 42-cent pastry under his shirt at the Wawa Market on Alexander Street. He was released to his father after processing.

space in the Valley Road building.

Staff transfers and reassignments will be on the agenda. The board will also discuss a possible amendment to the contract of Superintendent Paul Houston. The amendment is related to public criticism of the board for using public money to pay the $400 yearly dues of Dr. Houston to Rotary International. Rotary does not admit women members.

Two new policies will be introduced for discussion and future action: a "Family Life" program — that is, a program including sex education — for the schools, and a policy on hiring coaches.

DONATIONS SOUGHT

For Hospital Rummage Sale. The annual Rummage Sale to benefit the Medical Center at Princeton will be held Saturday and Sunday, October 3 and 4, at the Italian American Sportsmen's Club, Terhune Road. The sale is headed by Mrs. Roland Roach and Mrs. Leroy Hunninghake and is sponsored by the Auxiliary of the Medical Center.

Donations of all kinds, from antiques to zithers, jewelry, household furnishings, clothes, books and kitchenware are accepted. Donations may be brought to Corner House next to Princeton Hospital on the corner of Witherspoon Street and Henry Avenue each Saturday from 9 to noon until the sale.

For further information call Mrs. Roach at 924-7607 or Mrs. Hunninghake at 924-5872.

THREE TEACHERS ADDED

To League Nursery School. The University League Nursery will add three new teachers to its staff this year.

Dena Kolodziej, who holds a B.S. in elementary education from Millersville State College, will be head teacher for one of the five day classes. Ms. Kolodziej formerly taught in Lawrence and Bristol townships, as well as in Frankfurt, Germany.

In response to community needs, a new three-day class has been formed. Carolyn MacCleod, a past president of the school, will assume the job of head teacher. Ms. MacCleod is a graduate of Trenton State College and has held teaching positions in the Ewing Township school system, the Hun School and the Princeton Y.

Joining her as assistant teacher for the three-day class is Kit Jahn, a former teacher at University League Nursery as well as Presbyterian Co-op Nursery School.

The existing staff consists of director and teacher Mary Longman; Carol Cox, Julie Hardt, Pam Betterton and Susie Rahr. In addition, a helping parent is present every day in each of the four classrooms.

Although there is currently a waiting list for the four-year-old classes, a few openings still remain in the three-year-old classes. For information call 924-3137 or 921-1129.

MORVEN TO HOST

"Smashing Evening." Governor and Mrs. Brendan Byrne will host a Smashing Evening at Morven September 19 to commemorate the 26th year of service by the Youth Tennis Foundation of Princeton.

Guests at Morven will also honor Bayard Jordan for his dedicated teaching of tennis students in the Princeton area. Mr. Jordan will present an award during the evening to a junior player who best exemplifies the sportsmanship Mr. Jordan has shown since the start of the Youth Tennis Foundation.

Co-chairmen Jenny Lehmann and Judy Bergmann are being assisted by Joan Wright, staging; Anne Reeves, invitations and entertainment; Eleanor Kuser, reservations; Arlene Scozzaro, addressing; Tracy Kenny, publicity; Robin and Jack McCarthy, bar; Petie Dorman, car

Closed Labor Day

The Public Library will be closed all day Saturday, Sunday and Monday of Labor Day Weekend (September 5, 6, 7).

Regular winter hours will resume September 8. They are Monday through Thursday, 9 to 9, and Friday and Saturday, 9 to 5:30 p.m. Sunday service, made possible through an anonymous donation to the Friends of the Library, will resume Sunday, October 4.

Books and other materials may be returned through the outside book returns, whenever the Library is closed.

READY FOR NURSERY SCHOOL: Old-timers and newcomers are preparing for the start of the Nassau Co-operativo Nursery School's second year as an "invited tenant" at Riverside School. Left is Miranda Short, who is in charge of membership; Cynthia Chessler, the now director and new head teacher for three-year-olds, (shown with Billy Short); standing, right, Nancy Matarose, new assistant teacher and, seated, head teachor Vickie Pehta with students Nina Aron and Leah Aron.

second year as a tenant of the Princeton Regional Schools in Riverside School. Nassau has two classrooms previously used for kindergarten rooms, and an enclosed play yard which is separate from the playground of the older children who attend Riverside Children enrolled with Nassau attend certain Riverside assembly programs and have access to library books and films.

The school offers a full-day program from 9 to 3; mornings from 8:30 to noon or mornings with the option of spending the afternoon for an additional $2.50 an hour. School officers are considering an afternoon session from t to 3 for children between two and one-half and five years.

Interested parents are asked to call Miranda Short, 921-1908

LEARN TO SWIM SET

By YWCA. The Princeton YWCA is planning the Annual "Free Learn to Swim" week for adults and teens on Monday-Thursday, September 14-17, from 9:30-10:30. This is a service of the Red Cross and the YWCA to help those who are non-swimmers or timid swimmers to become more at home in the water.

Besides learning basic swimming and safety skills participants will acquire improved muscle tone. Swimming is one of the best exercises.

To take part call 924-5571, Ext. 21, or come in to the Princeton YWCA Office to register by September 11. Babysitting will be provided for a small fee if reservations are made.

you need, more than ever, to take care of your precious few trees, that is! August was very, very dry and even though temperatures were lower, dry is not what your trees needed

An excellent case in point is the beleagured Dogwood It is not normal for it to change color right now, and yet almost everywhere you look you see one or two branches of Dogwood turning bright red This is nothing more than a flag to tell you that the root which corresponds to that red branch is in severe decline, or already dead Dogwoods are so shallow rooted that they often show the effects of drought much sooner than your other trees, take heed, though and do something to arrest decline quickly All of your trees need to be watered - thoroughly - twice a week from now until first frosts appear or until we start getting some heavy rainfall

In addition, those branches, or portions of branches which are either dead or clearly in decline should be pruned back well beyond the point of wilt Remember that root damaged trees are prime targets for disease and insect infestation

The most valuable service you can provide is a deep root feeding with a slow release tree food Slow release is the key here It will not force new growth now (which will certainly be killed off by frosts further damaging the tree) but will insure proper amounts of nutrients are available for next springs' growth Flowering buds are already set for next year, and if they are to mature, rejuvenation is essential!

One more word of warning the drought of 80-81 and the especially severe winter have damaged the roots of your trees make no mistake about it! Even if you have not seen unusual amounts of deadwood, the damage exists Treat them especially well when it comes to food and water this fall Severely atrophied roots cannot support the weight of the crown and are real "pushovers" when storm warnings fly!

Financial Woes in Borough Stymie Efforts to Purchase Computer There

As any policeman will point out, the character who breaks into a house or sticks a gun in someone's back is not likely to respect municipal boundaries in going about his work. Thanks to the National Crime Information Center, lawmen now are able to cross state boundaries for information at a touch of a few buttons. And thanks to computerized record keeping, individual police departments also are banding together with those in neighboring municipalities. In Monmouth County, for example, 10 departments now share a computer and nine more are expected to join.

And in Princeton? Well, Princeton still has the Township, which has direct access to the NCIC, and the Borough, which does not. Borough Police Chief Michael Carnevale has lobbied for acquisition of a computer terminal but he has been turned back thus far by the ever worsening Borough financial conditions.

Not that the Borough operates in the dark ages. Two recent arrests were made because Borough detectives telephoned for NCIC look-ups from the State Police in West Trenton. The Borough also enters information into the system either by calling it in, or by driving to another police department that has a terminal.

But the system is clearly awkward, and potentially dangerous, according to Chief Carnevale. "There's all sorts of information — such as a stolen car report — that we ought to have immediately. Lack of it could prove embarrassing or could jeopardize the life of an officer."

Using the telephone, adds the chief, "does not afford us a written print-out of the information we receive. That can sometimes be of value in an arraignment." Entering information on stolen property is particularly time consuming, even with the computer terminal. "Our detectives may go to West Windsor or the Township but they know they're taking time away from someone else's work, and we're all sensitive to that."

One of the goals of the Township's proposed new police computer system is identification of crime patterns and correlation of investigative material. Whether or not the Borough and Township police departments will pool their information in that system remains to be seen.

Police Computer

Printed Bulletins. Through a printer connected to the computer terminal, Township Police also receive all teletype bulletins sent out by the NCIC and by other police departments in the state. Before the computer hook-up, Township Police relied on the State Police barracks on Route 1 to alert them to bulletins that seemed pertinent to the Township.

When Joanne Chesimard, the black militant and accused murderer, escaped from the state prison in Clinton, Township Police had no computer, and no knowledge of the escape until several hours later, when a Township officer overheard a radio dispatch from another department checking report of a sighting on Route 1. "We're lucky no one stopped her for a routine traffic violation," says Lt. Pinelli.

Township police also feed information into the national computer network. Arrest warrants are entered immediately, as are any reports of stolen motor vehicles. Township police can also enter pertinent information on stolen boats, securities, missing persons — if the case meets certain criteria — and even stolen articles, if the value is $500 or more or if the item is marked with an owner-applied registration number that would facilitate recovery found by another police department. Several cars and "lots of mopeds" have been returned to Township residents, says Lt. Pinelli.

The computer also performs some otherwise tedious bookkeeping functions. Every day in the Township, copies of all parking tickets issued that day are delivered to the desk man, who enters the license plate number and obtains a printed record of the owner's name and address. That's forwarded to the Violations Bureau, which used to wait several weeks to obtain that information by mail before the advent of the computer.

For traffic court, Township officials are able to obtain a printed record of all moving violations for each person appearing before the judge. He can consult that record when determining a sentence for a particular offender.

The New Computer. For its existing computer system, the Township paid $6,800 for the used terminal and accessories. It also pays $72 a month for the telephone line over which information is transmitted, plus about $150 a year for paper to feed into the printer.

To tie into the new computer already in use in the Township, the police department would need about $2,300 for a terminal, plus an additional amount to hire a programmer to create the software suitable for police purposes.

"We hope to have a terminal here within two years," says Lt. Pinelli, who believes that the start-up cost of the system would be well worth the price to taxpayers.

"We could list all our own criminal and arrest records, plus stolen articles and victims. The statistics we normally keep for the FBI's Uniform Crime Reports could be adapted to this. We could keep emergency information, such as where the nearest fire hydrant is located, who to call first, and medical information.

"We will want to have some idea of crime patterns, so that we can view breaking and entry cases by time and geographical area and also by modus operandi. When an officer is dispatched to an address he should be able to know the past dealing of the people there with the police. Right now we try to stay abreast of certain names, but some guys in the department just will not know a certain individual. All this might take years to program in to the computer, but it can happen. It is already happening in other areas of the country."

Inevitably, the question will arise: What about the rights of the citizens to privacy and to freedom from unwarranted investigations into their activities?

Lt. Pinelli has no doubt about where the balance lies. "There are going to be many times and many cases where the computer is going to be more beneficial for the protection of life and property than it is an infringement of anyone's rights."

Wrong Concepts about PCH.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

It is important that the public understand the issues involved in the decision to develop and enhance the Central Business District by among other things, providing a building and congregate services for the elderly and the handicapped residents of our community.

There seem to be a number of mistaken concepts concerning the Princeton Community Housing's "Institutional" building. In contrast, the housing which PCH is committed to build approximates as closely as possible a home environment. In fact, it is the belief of the PCH Board that institutionalization can be postponed or prevented, by providing both carefully designed housing in the center of town and congregate services which would be available to those who wish to purchase them.

When the elderly or hondicapped need only a few services, such as light housekeeping, laundry or hot meals, it is often cruel and inhumane, and certainly always enormously more expensive, to "warehouse" them in long term care facilities. Perhaps those who continually refer to PCH's housing as "institutional" should spend some time in a nursing home. There they will find the true meaning of institutionalization.

There also seems to be the ingenuous idea that PCH can "scrap" the CBD location for a "better" one on the outskirts of town. A major reason that HUD agreed to invest several million dollars in Princeton was because of the unique location offered by the community.

The illusion conjured up in the letter to the editor last week which characterized the elderly as nuisances obstructing traffic and only able "to window shop for the CBD goodies which are beyond their grasp," is ludicrous and demeaning to the dignity of the older citizens of our community.

I would hope that the authors of these letters could somehow come to appreciate the importance of dignity for older citizens. Being old and discarded by your community is a dreadful fate that millions of senior citizens must face in America. Perhaps the citizens of Princeton could take pride in a town which cares more about people than about the asphalt that will be displaced by this uniquely significant contribution to the community.

Tax Deferral Questionable.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

A group of local citizens, concerned about their real estate taxes, appears to advocate deferred payment of those taxes. Though many of us, myself included, have questions about various aspects of the recent reassessment, I would like to draw attention to the following facts.

Most municipalities charge a fee for late payment of real estate taxes. In Princeton Township a late fee of 8 percent is currently charged on the first $1500 of delinquent taxes. The fee rises to 18 percent for amounts over $1500. Hence the wisdom of deferral seems very questionable as those who pay late must inevitably pay more than those who pay on time.

Second, if a substantial number of citizens defer payments, next year's tax rate will be forced further upward because state law mandates that all municipalities budget an amount (computed by state-determined guide lines) for unpaid taxes.

Last, each citizen would be well advised to check his or her property card on file in the assessor's office. The assessment is based on the property card data and if the card contains errors of fact, the assessment will also be in error.

Another View on PCH.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

A letter to the Editor of TOWN TOPICS (August 19) requires a point-by-point answer from those of us who differ in our outlook on aging as well as toward the PCH housing project nearby the Public Library — which is an apartment complex and not an "institution."

First, there is no question whatsoever of "uprooting" anyone. Over 150 individuals (some of whom have waited 3-4-5 years for assignment to senior housing) have eagerly "signed up" for these apartments.

Secondly, the primary number of seniors accepted to live in this project must be ambulatory and able to take care of themselves, they are not Nursing Home candidates. Healthy seniors do not want to be out of the main stream of life, neither are all those over 60 doddering idiots (the number of senior volunteers in community service will attest to that), and they have every bit as much right to live in downtown Princeton as any other citizens.

The discriminatory attitude and picture of decrepitude and deterioration used in connection with seniors shows a lack of knowledge and is exactly what PCH projects are intended to forestall. Modern gerontology and medical science findings are that "senility" is not a necessary condition of aging.

As to traffic in the area: traffic flow should be relieved when the jam created by overloaded parking lots ceases. Traffic must stop for all pedestrians not just those over 60! The $4 million federal HUD monies referred to are legally allotted for the specific purpose of senior housing and are not usable for anything else.

Thirdly, it is downright heartwarming that such compassion is felt for PCH residents who "would be financially unable to shop in the expensive CBD or able to buy the goodies they see displayed." Isn't it a nervous subject just exactly how many local citizens of any age will be able to purchase these expensive goodies?

Lastly, the architectual design (and greenery) for the PCH building has been carefully considered and would be a pleasant addition

Three out of four people can be found shopping in the Bell System Yellow Pages an average of 60 times a year. That's more than once a week.*

And the easiest way to attract their business is to attract their attention.

By increasing the size of your Yellow Pages ad you can advertise more than just your name, location and phone number. You can tell potential buyers the hours you're open. The brand name products you carry. And the credit cards you honor.

More space simply allows you to give potential customers vital information when they're most likely to make a purchase.

Consider too, your Yellow Pages ad will be on the job 24 hours a day. All year long.

It's hard to imagine getting more advertising impact for your money.

to this area — "Beauty is in the eye of the beholder." For instance, what is so esthetically attractive about the rear end of the Nassau Inn and its adjacent power plant? Or the Benson Building, the Public Service set-up and oceans of parking meters and ugly macadam surrounding the Library? Where are all the moans and groans about these "eye sores?"

In "talking to many Borough residents of all ages" — I submit the following who represent a sizable cross-section of thinking in our town: All Saints Church, Christ Congregation, First Baptist Church, Institute for Advanced Study, The Jewish Center, League of Women Voters, Methodist Church of Princeton, Mt. Pisgah AME Church, Nassau Presbyterian Church, Princeton Regional Educational Association, Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton University, St. Paul's Church, Society of Friends, Trinity Church, Unitarian Church of Princeton, Witherspoon-Jackson Development Corporation, Witherspoon Presbyterian Church, YWCA, and the American Association of Retired Persons — all are sponsoring members of the PCH Board of Trustees and are "friends and neighbors" who have a different interpretation of "hope" — it is their "hope" that a civilized community will respond to the desperate need of housing for seniors in the "heart of Princeton."

Paramedics a Bargain.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The following is a copy of a letter I sent to the Princeton Borough Council:

Today I met a man whose life I had helped saved. Last winter he had been in cardiac arrest and our Lifemobile had revived him as he lay on the floor of his home. We had a lengthy comversation. It felt good.

A short while ago, Kevin Kelty and I received notice that the paid daytime coverage by Princeton Lifemohile would end September 25 for lack of Borough support. That didn't feel so good.

Several thoughts have come to mind and I would like to share them with you. (1) Princeton Borough has been getting excellent 24-hour advanced and basic life support coverage while paying only $12,000 a year. There are only four certified paramedics in the Princeton Squad, two who are paid and two who are solely volunteers. I, a paid person, answered as many calls in my off-duty hours (without pay) in the first six months of 1981 as I did during my paid hours (a combined total of 353 calls for the 6-month period). Who is going to take up the slack if my partner and I are forced to leave the area to continue in our chosen profession?

(2) It has been suggested that the squad support the paid personnel out of its regular fund drive income. The squad is just able to meet its operating expenses exclusive of salaries with its current fund raising activities. Where is the additional money to be raised? (David Guerzini's wonderful, public-spirited fireworks display to benefit the paramedic program raised less than $700 at a cost to him of about $2,500!)

(3) It has been suggested that we charge for our service. Would the squad's volunteers continue to serve if the squad were billing patients? Several members have stated that they would not. If the volunteers desert, what would it cost to provide 24-hour coverage? Is the squad to charge only for daytime calls, thus encouraging perhaps critically ill people to delay their treatment until evening when the volunteers are available; or will they use some other mode of transportation putting themselves at greater risk? Would the squad be able to raise the bulk of its operating expenses by voluntary contributions if the community viewed it as a pay-as-you-go operation? Who is to handle the billing-collection business if the squad charges for its service? At what additional expense?

(4) If the paid daytime coverage is terminated, not only the Borough citizens will suffer. If the Borough Council refuses to appropriate its original one-third share of personnel expenses, its citizens AND those of the Township, who contribute two-thirds of the cost, will receive slower, less skilled, less certain service.

I find Council's position hard to understand as do many people with whom I have spoken.

Decent Housing Needed.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I wish that the writer of TOWN TOPICS' mailbox letter (August 19) suggesting the scrapping of PCH's building plans, could accompany me on a tour of some of the present homes of our applicants for housing, in which she suggests they would be better off to remain.

The beneficial "familiar surroundings" can be a furnished room up a difficult flight of stairs, sharing a friend's or family member's small home, perhaps sleeping on a couch or with a grandchild, a dilapidated, poorly heated apartment, or an apartment on which the rent may have suddenly been increased by $50 to $100 (a month!), requiring all of the persons's income for rent and utilities.

We are delighted when older people are able to live in their own homes, are able to pay their rent and still afford necessities, such as food, are able to maintain their homes, and are able to care for themselves fully.

But what of those who are not able to manage these things? Judging by PCH's growing list of applications and The Housing Authority's waiting list of approximately 75 applications for senior housing, there are many who do not enjoy that fortunate state of affairs.

To charge the Borough, County and State to help maintain older people in their own homes is to reveal a decided lack of knowledge regarding the present state of affairs concerning available financial aid for social concerns of any kind.

The writer's description of the rapid decline of the elderly into senility and other health problems, with its attendant nuisance factor to traffic is insulting to the great majority of our older people who are active participatory citizens in the affairs of the community. Those who do acquire the problems described are hardly able to live alone either in their own homes or in subsidized housing.

However, it is likely that with support made possible by the congregate services which PCH is expected to offer, they will be able to continue living independent lives far longer, rather than be relegated to a nursing home because of the lack of a few essential services.

Oddly enough, the argument concerning the inability of the elderly to enjoy the "expensive goodies" surrounding them in the CBD has a familiar ring, since the same argument was advanced regarding the danger to the psyche of low-income families if subsidized housing (i.e., Redding Circle) were to be built in an affluent neighborhood.

Let us keep our focus on what is important — namely, decent housing at an affordable cost to some of our long-time Princeton residents in need of it, which is now within our grasp.

KARIN SLABY
Executive Director
Borough Housing Authority

A Bow, and a "Thank You!"
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I would like to thank all the individuals within Princeton and the surrounding communities who by supporting Princeton Street Theatre helped us achieve our eleventh successful summer season. It is gratifying to know that people do continue to care about youth theatre programs.

Our special thanks goes first to the participants, for without them there would have been no theatre. We would also like to thank the Princeton Youth Fund, the P.B.A. Local 130, the Princeton Arts Council, Princeton Community Village, the Council of Community Services, and LDH Printing Unlimited who offered us grant money or an exchange of services.

We would be remiss not to thank Bill Karch, Elliot Daley, Princeton Citgo Station, and Steve Gaissert who helped get our trailer from one place to another.

A huge thank you to all the places in Princeton who opened their doors to us to perform — Bud Vivian and Tony Mayer at Princeton University, Carl Storey at Princeton Day School, Mark Gordon at Borough Hall, Pat Tarman of Princeton Shopping Center, Judy Woitecheck of Princeton Regional Schools, Jocelyn Helm of Spruce Circle, and the members of the First Aid Squad.

Thank you all.

MARY BETH REEVES
Executive Director
Princeton Street Theatre

PCH Location is Key.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

We want to thank the many people who were involved in the planning and submission of the proposal for the Princeton Community Housing Project. In a time of severe financial cutbacks in human services, this project was selected for funding by HUD over all others in New Jersey.

A key reason for its selection was the unique suitability of the location. Under this proposal, older and-or handicapped people, living in the central business district, would be afforded easy access to stores, medical facilities, transportation, the library, films, restaurants, the YM-YWCA, and clubs and activities. This location, also, avoids the isolation and lack of stimulation that characterizes many similar facilities which are built in outlying areas.

We sincerely hope that Princeton residents will support this project. The needs of the elderly and handicapped are often overlooked. This is an opportunity to meet some of these needs in an important way.

PORCELAIN, STONEWARE

At State Museum. Rare examples of 18th-century stoneware, 19th century molded wares with colored glazes, and 19th-century porcelain commemorative vases are in a new exhibition of New Jersey ceramics, on view from this Friday through October 4 and October 24 through November 29, at the State Museum, Trenton.

New Jersey clay beds were developed by potters and entrepreneurs in the 18th century for the manufacture of stoneware. The exhibit includes pieces from early potteries in Cheesequake, Ringoes and Old Bridge as well as archaeological materials collected by Robert Sim in the 1930's and 1940's.

Brown-glazed earthenware pitchers and vases like those in the exhibition are often called "Rockingham wares," and were produced in New Jersey at places like the American Pottery Company in Jersey City, the Salamander Works in Woodbridge and the Rue Pottery in Matawan.

Among the porcelain pieces in the exhibition are the Baseball Vase modeled by Isaac Broome for Ott & Brewer in 1876 and the Trenton Vase created by the Trenton Potteries Company for the 1904 Louisiana Purchase Exposition in St. Louis.

Also being shown are representative pieces of hotel and sanitary ware made by the Maddock companies and delicate, gold-encrusted examples of American belleek porcelain from Willets, Ott & Brewer and the Ceramic Art Company (now Lenox).

Of special interest is a collection of objects, design drawings and photographs given to the Museum by descendents of the owners of Trenton's Greenwood Pottery and being exhibited for the first time.

The Museum is open from 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 1 to 5 p.m. weekends and legal holidays. Admission is free.

ART AND MUSIC

Course Offered. The art and music of the Baroque period will be the subject of a non-credit course to be offered this fall by the Rider College School for Continuing Studies. Classes will be held from 9-11 a.m. on Fridays between September 25 and November 13. The fee is $70.

Marilyn Levitt, assistant professor of art, will describe the art of Bernini, Rubens, Velasquez and Rembrandt. Dr. Carl Schwartz, associate professor of music, will discuss the fugues and choral compositions of Bach, the oratorios of Handel, the concertos of Vivaldi and the harpsichord compositions of Scarlatti.

Additional information may be obtained by calling 609-896-5033. Rider College is in Lawrenceville, seven miles south of Princeton on Route 206.

ART! SONGS! PRIZES!

Outdoor Show. Oils and acrylics, pop classics and show tunes, water colors and an old-fashioned sing-along have been combined for an Outdoor Art Exhibition and Sale to be held at the Princeton Shopping Center Saturday, September 26 (rain: October 3).

The event is sponsored by the Princeton Art Association and the Shopping Center. Artists who would like to participate may obtain applications at the management office of the Center, or at Art Association headquarters on Rosedale Road. Information is available from 921-6234 or 921-9173.

Cash prizes will be a Best of Show Award of $250, plus five Best in Category awards of $100 each. Judges will be Elizabeth Monath, Jeanne Pasley and Frederic Scudder.

The music will come from the New Jersey Pops Orchestra, which will present a program starting at 2. Show tunes, patriotic songs, pop classics and a sing-along will all be on the program. The performance, under the direction of Michael J. Buglio, is part of the New Jersey State Council on the Arts' "Summer Festival '81."

EXHIBITS

An art exhibit, illustrating various works of Kendall Park artist Andrew Cerniski, will be held at the South Brunswick Public Library through September 30. Among the illustrations on display will be examples of pen-ink, oil painting, pastel and water-color renderings.

Ability of Quarterback Bob Holly to Run Offense Will Be Key to Princeton's Football Fortunes

Princeton began preparing for its 113th season of football last week with the opening of practice, and there appears to be only one prediction that can be made with a fair degree of accuracy: they won't win or lose 'em all.

Beyond that, the only other certainty is that they will not be invited to play in any post-season bowl game. So many variables abound, that September football predictions compete with economic forecasts for excercises in futility.

Well over 100 candidates are vying for positions on the squad, some of them veteran players, whose abilities are known, others largely untested at this point. Between now and the season's opener, September 19, some will quit, others will be cut, a few injured. In a scant three weeks of practice head coach Frank Navarro and his staff will seek to mold those who remain into a solid, competitive team.

In this regard, one uncertainty appears to stand out above all others: the ability of the probable starting quarterback, Bob Holly, to run the offense. As any football fan knows, the quarterback more than any other single player must carry most of the responsibility for his team's success or failure.

A statement like that tends to oversimplify the other problems. Obviously Princeton has much rebuilding to do on defense, a new corps of receivers is needed, not to mention a capable punter.

However, it's not difficult for anyone to remember what happened last fall when Mark Lockenmeyer replaced Holly at quarterback in the fourth game. After three consecutive losses the season was on the brink of disaster. The offense was going nowhere. Lockenmeyer was the catalyst that brought the team together and produced six out of seven victories the rest of the way.

Quarterback Bob Holly
Will This Be His Year?

A Fine Runner. The key was his ability to run with the ball, either on the option, whicb opened up opposing defenses, or when he found all his receivers were covered. His 102 yards on 72 carries were invaluable, especially when he was able to turn a potential sack into a small gain or at least get back to the line of scrimmage.

Much less adept at scrambling, Holly recorded a minus 83 yards in 24 carries.

Lockenmeyer's passing abilities earned him several Princeton records. He completed 110 in 185 attempts for a .595 percentage, the highest in the ECAC Division I. Holly was 52 for 87 in the six games in which he saw action, a slightly higher percentage, but he could not seem to complete passes in key situations.

So much will depend on what Holly can do on the ground; partially dictated by the amount of confidence he has in himself as a runner. He has the speed.

Holly started two games as a sophomore, and the first three last year. He saw only limited action after that, but unless something totally unexpected happens in preseason practice now underway, the job will be his at the outset as it was last year.

Others Inexperienced. The main reason for this is that the total varsity experience of the other three quarterbacks is about five plays, and no passes. Junior Brent Woods got into every game as the holder on place kicking attempts but his signal calling was limited to one series, all running plays, late in the Maine game. He had fairly impressive stats as a freshman, completing 54 of 110 passes for 643 yards and five touchdowns.

Behind Woods are sophomores Steve Cusma and Scott Mayfield, who split the duties on the 1980 freshman squad that finished 2-4. Mayfield is considered the better passer of the two. Given time, one of these three may develop, but if Holly can't cut the mustard early on, that luxury won't be available.

The large question mark hanging over the quarterback slot does not extend to the rest of the offensive backfield. Two battle-proven senior starters return, as do both of their back-ups. Fullback Larry Van Pelt and tailback Mike Neary will give the Tigers as good a one-two running punch as any team in the Ivies.

Van Pelt, a co-captain with Jono Helmerich, led the squad in rushing with 550 yards in 121 carries, for a two-year total of 1,100. He was also the team's leading kick-off return man in 1980 and fourth-leading receiver.

Neary's clear-cut abilities enabled Navarro to shift him into a starting role in the

What are the odds that, of all the high schools in America, ONE school would produce TWO men who both became starting quarterbacks in the National Football League... Such is the case with Woodlawn High in Shreveport, La... Both Terry Bradshaw of the Steelers and Joe Ferguson of the Bills went to, and played for, Woodlawn High.

Here's an oddity... A major-college football team once played four 0-0 games in ONE season... In 1937, Temple's games against Mississippi, Bucknell, Boston College and Holy Cross all wound up with a final score of 0-0... No other college football team — before or since — has ever played that many scoreless ties in one season.

fourth game, and move Cris Crissy to split end. He gained 506 yards from the tailback slot, scoring a team-high nine touchdowns, and was second only to Crissy in receiving with 28 catches.

Juniors Roland Warren and Farris Curry will give the Tigers excellent reserve strength at these positions.

Who'll Replace Crissy? One of the problems Holly will face is throwing to a much less experienced group of receivers. Gone is one of the most accomplished players in Princeton's history, Crissy, who shattered several Princeton receiving records, and became the first player in Princeton history to gain more than 1,000 yards rushing and 1,000 receiving in hia carecr.

Crissy, who was cut by the New England Patrlots two weeks ago, caught 55 passes for 653 yards, tops in the ECAC. He was an honorable mention selection to the AP All-American team, and was named to the first team All-Ivy squad for his efforts last fall.

Another atarter lost to graduation is flanker Lew Leone. He and Crissy caught more passes between them than the rest of the team comhined. Leone also did a fine joh on the reverse, gaining 94 yards in 17 carries.

Of those returning, senior Scott Oostdyk has logged the most playing time. He alternoted at tight end last year with nnother departed letterman Tom Trkla. Oostdyk finished fifth in receiving a year ago wlth nine catches for 118 ynrds. Also back at tight end is Alex Pendino.

Senior Dave Ginda, who had seven receptions last fall, will probably reploce Leone at flanker. Also in the picture ore sophomores Roger Ackerman, Derek Graham and Kevln Gutherie. There will be plenty of competition for these positions.

A year ago the offensive line needed to be almost totally rebuilt, this fall four of five starters return, but the one loss is a big one. Guard Mark Bailey, a co-captain last year, won All-Ivy honors and All-American honorable mention.

The returning starters are junior tackle Jon Schulthexis, senlor center Larry Arata, senior guard Rick Klein, and the biggest man on the team at 6-6, 275 lbs, senior tackle Mark Rifkin. All the hack-ups here are also returning, giving the Tigers plenty of depth, if and when the injuries begin to occur. These players include tackles Kevin Scholsser and Tom Pascarella, guards Jerry Brady and Jeff Rantz, and center Mike Schiller. Chris Long, who handled long snaps last fall also returns.

Holes on Defense. Navarro and his staff will have the biggest gaps to fill on defense, where the Tigers lose eight of 11 starters on defense, including such standouts as co-captain Paul Van Pelt and Rick Boer at defensive ends, Ron McNulty and Tim Mulvey who split the time at nose guard, and free safety Dave Gutzke. Gutzke like Crissy took a shot at the pros, but was dropped by Minnesota.

The only returning starter on the line is senior co-captain Jono Helmerich, a fine defensive tackle. Candidates for the four other positions include six lettermen who saw some playing time last year: Isaac Smith and Craig Carvin, tackles; Gary Grass, Joe Voightsberger and Dan Thompson, ends; and Bob Haywood, middle guard. End George Chryst and middle guard Jeff Urbany are a couple of promising sophomores.

No problem exists at the two linebacker positions, where both starters, senior Ed Nardi and junior Doug Kaye, are back. Behind them are senior Scott Wright, and juniors Mark Finnigan and Jordy Maine. Phil Prosapio, who played behind Kaye a year ago, has decided not to play this fall, and Vic Ruterbusch has been moved to the defensive backfield.

Graduation losses have also taken a heavy toll in the

Two Scrimmages Here

Princeton has added another pre-season scrimmage in preparation for its opener against Dartmouth September 19.

Lafayette will be the opponent this Saturday at 11 a.m. on the practice field in front of Jadwin Gym. The Leopards, 3-7 last year in Divlsion IAA competition, are not expected to provide too tough a test for the Tigers in their first outing.

The following Saturday Wilkes, a Division III team, with a 3-6 mark last fall, will make its annual preseason appearance here on the same field. Both scrlmmages are open to the puhlic. The latter will atart at 11 also, after Princeton'a 11th annual Football and Soccer Clinic which begins at 9:30.

This is how much station wagon you should expect for $12,000 today.

From the second-largest carmaker in Europe comes the Peugeot Diesel Wagon.

The $11,660* price includes power-assisted steering and brakes, Michelin steel-belted radial tires, roof rack, and reclining front seats.

So well is the Peugeot Diesel Wagon equipped that the only extra-cost options are automatic transmission, air conditioning, metallic paint, and a radio.

Fuel economy of the Peugeot Diesel Wagon is 28 EPA estimated mpg, 34 estimated highway mpg, with the standard manual transmission.

The load capacity of the Peugeot Diesel Wagon—over half a ton—is exceeded only by the largest full-size wagons. No other imported station wagon comes close.

Also available: diesel, turbocharged diesel, and fuel-injected gasoline 5-passenger sedans, priced from $15,510 to $10,990.*

See us for details of Peugeot's limited warranties.

*Based on manufacturer's P.O.E. suggested retail prices. Actual prices may vary according to local dealer. Destination charges, state and local taxes, dealer preparation, if any, and license fees are extra.

Use EPA estimated mpg for comparison purposes. The mileage you get may vary with trip length, speed, weather, and condition of car. Actual highway mileage will probably be less.

secondary, where, in addition to Gutzke, cornerbacks Henry Milligan and John Kistler and strong safety Chris Boudreau have departed. Tops among those returning is Dave Rudd who moved into a starting role when Boudreau was injured.

Penn State Transfer. Senior cornerbacks Tim Yaggi and Stan Freck saw some action last year, as did senior free safety Chris Fickett. The player many are waiting to see, however, is Bill Meade, a transfer from Penn State, who started three games for the Nittany Lions at safety as a freshman. Meade had to sit out last year, but is expected to win a starting spot this fall. Ruterbusch may wind up a starter also.

The Tigers will definitely miss the punting ability of Ken Buck. A first-team All-Ivy selection, Buck averaged 37.2 yards on 59 tries. Competing for his job will be senior Marshall Merrifield, who was used just once last season, and junior Brad Urschel, who punted as a freshman, but sat out last year with an injury.

Senior Rick Wise handled the place kicking in 1980, but managed only three field goals in nine attempts. His p.a.t. kicks were almost perfect, 20 out of 21. Sophomore Sebastian Gutierrez will challenge Wise for the place kicking duties.

—Jeb Stuart

SHRADER IS WINNER

In Golf Tournament. Ross Shrader was the overall winner with a 161 in the senior championship tournament held last month at Springdale Golf club. Bill Quakenbush was runner up with 164.

Winners in the five age brackets were Woody Skillman, 55 to 59 with a 137; Bill Pearce, 60-64, 143; Woody Wirsig, 65-69, 131; Ross Shrader, 70-74, 139; and 75 and over, B.E. Bergesen, 140.

HOLE-IN-ONE SET

At Bedens Brook Club. A 1981 Chevrolet Chevette will be presented to the first golfer to make a hole-in-one on the 13th hole at The Bedens Brook Club, in a Presbyterian Homes Classic on Tuesday, September 15.

The new car is being donated by Prince Chevrolet of Route 206. The event is open to men and women.

In addition to an afternoon of tournament play, the outing will include a professional golf clinic, luncheon and dinner. Proceeds will benefit residents and patients of the Homes in need of financial assistance.

Schedule for the day is 11:30, golf clinic; 12:30, luncheon; 1:30, tournament with "shotgun start"; 6:30, a "19th Hole Celebration" and 7, awards dinner.

For Soccer League. Registration for the Saturday league of the Princeton Soccer Association will be held Saturday from 9 to 1 at the Dinky Station on University Place. Registration blanks for those who have not received them in the mail will be available.

The season will begin the following Saturday. Further questions should be directed to Jean Taber at 921-0442.

Traveling team play is tentatively scheduled to begin September 27. Coaches will contact their players with definite schedules of games and practices. Individual coaches will also announce try-out times for any remaining openings on their teams.

A coach is being sought to form a '73 traveling team. Anyone interested should call Mimi Ballard at 924-8631.

WINNING TEAMS NAMED

In Davis Cup Jr. League. Two teams emerged as winners in the Davis Cup Junior League sponsored by the Princeton Community Tennis Program.

Members of the team from Thailand, which won for the first week of competition, were Paul Jamieson, Elizabeth Kinghorn, Kimberly Kozlowski, Kelly Lambert, Suzanne Lengyel, Jimmy O'Rourke, Alexa Richman and Marchella Simone.

For the second week, the winners from Australia were Peter Lengyel, Nick Leshley, John Malcolm, Scott Pierson, David Precheur, Nick Rudenstein, Joe Speciale, and Patrick Stevens.

OUTDOOR CLASSES SET

In Tennis. For tennis players who love the outdoors, the Princeton Community Tennis Program will hold a special session of outdoor classes before the start of the indoor winter season.

Outdoor classes will begin September 14 and run through October 9 for adults and October 23 for juniors. Children in grades 3-6 may take lessons from 4-6 p.m. one day each week. Older juniors up to the 12th grade may enroll for Saturday morning classes.

Adult classes will be available mornings or early evenings for two days each week. A special class for those 55 or over will run Monday and Wednesday afternoons through October 30.

The classes will be open to all beginner-intermediate players.

Registration is at the Tennis Office, 71 University Place. For further information, call 924-4343.

INDOOR TENNIS TO START

September 21. The Princeton Community Tennis Program will begin its winter indoor classes for juniors, adults, and senior citizens on September 21.

March 26 for juniors and adults; the seniors class will run November 1-April 2. Registration is at the Tennis Office, 71 University Place.

ADULT SCHOOL READY

With Fall Curriculum. Courses providing cultural enrichment, the chance to sharpen musical, artistic and recreational skills, language training, and "how-to" advice are all available this fall from the Princeton Adult School.

Mail registration is now under way. Descriptions of the 77 courses and registration information are contained in the Adult School booklet which has been mailed to residents of Princeton and neighboring areas. Additional booklets are available at the Princeton Public Library or may be obtained by calling 883-5675 weeknights, 7 to 9 p.m.

The Adult School urges the public to enroll early by mail as many classes are limited in size. Registration may also be made in person on Tuesday, Sept. 22 from 4-6 and 7-10 p.m. at Princeton High School.

Thursday courses will begin October 1 and Tuesday courses on Oct. 6. Courses are three to ten weeks long and, unless noted in the booklet, are held at the high school. All residents of Princeton and surrounding communities are eligible to enroll. Fee discounts are available for senior citizens and students under 18.

Lecture courses deal with topics of current interest. "Realms of the Universe," taught by Princeton astronomer Edward b. Jenkins, explores the vast reaches of space. Dr. Kenneth S. Gould will give "An Introduction to the Field of Psychoanalysis." "Nutrition Facts and Fiction," by nutritionist Jeanne M. Hoskin, offers guidelines for dealing with nutrition information.

Those approaching old age or assisting a parent or grandparent should benefit from "Exploring Aging," taught by Irene Salayl, administrator of the Glen Gardner Geriatric Center. Nahoma Sachs, a Princeton psychotherapist, will teach "Dealing with Stress," a course offering tools for recognizing and alleviating stress.

Literature enthusiasts can read the works of William Faulkner, Robert Penn Warren and others in "More American Southern Writers," taught by Sister Dorothy Holmes. The personalities and productions of the Bloomsbury group are the focus of "Bloomsbury: Leonard and Virginia," taught by Frederick Gerstell. "The Techniques of Poetry" by Mairi MacInnes will explore poetic devices through discussion and workshop. Eugene Doherty will once again demonstrate how to write a story, in "Creative Writing."

A survey of women artists of Europe and America from the 16th through 19th centuries will be provided by Elaine Elierstein, in "A History of Woman Artists." Five potters will explain ceramic expression and technique in several countries in "The World of Ceramics" with Martha Otis Wright, Marion Weiss, Ka-Kwong Hui, Ilse Johnson and Adele Schonbrun.

A historical perspective on religious attitudes is the focus of "Jew, Christian and Muslim in the Middle Ages" by Professor Mark R. Cohen of Princeton. A much longer historical perspective is offered by Erling Dorf's course on earth's own history — "Historical Geology." Birdwatchers, beginners or advanced, will once again have the opportunity to learn techniques with Thomas C. Southerland, Jr. in "Finding and Identifying Birds."

This terms' offerings in the culinary arts department are Brazilian Cooking (Iva B. Barros), French Provincial Cooking (Dominique Royce) and Indian cooking (Tehmina Alphonse). To compliment a gourmet meal, Bob Levine offers "Introduction to Wine Appreciation" and "Wine Appreciation for the Initiated."

Music skills are addressed in courses on the recorder (Jennifer Lehmann), guitar (Caroline Moseley) and piano (Marianne Lauffer). Also offered are "How to Hear More in Music" (Eve Beglarian and Frank Brickle) and "Basic Skills in Music" (Barton Bartle).

Several courses in applied arts are being offered: "Italic and Roman Calligraphy" (Fran Nimek), "Christmas Crafts Workshop" (Mitzy Savini, "Wall Stencilling" (Barbara Sandler and Marilou Tobin), "Theorem Painting" (Barbara Sandler), Tinsel Painting" (Marilou Tobin), "Lampshade Piercing and Cutting" (Gerry B. Kimble) and "Painting in Oils and Acrylics (Helen Schwartz).

Ed Brozyna offers an introduction and intermediate darkroom course and a 35mm photography course. Edith M. Kogan will teach "Making Prints Without a Press." "Mime Workshop for Beginners" will be taught by Mark Schaeffer.

In the area of special and personal skills, offerings include "Peer Group for Parents" (Sharon Powell and Ralph Heyman), "Financial Planning and Investment" (Robert F. Rohr and Chris Tarr), "Managing Money" (Irene Oppenheim), "Do Your Own Income Tax Returns" (William Volk) and "Microcomputer Literacy" and "Microcomputer Programming" (Toni Neilsen).

Irv Urken and Bob Schneider will teach "Basic Home Repairs." A course on upholstering will be taught by Albert Domotor. Sgt. Thomas Michaud of the Princeton Borough Police will offer "Crime Prevention."

BUG-OF-THE-WEEK

By J. Drew Foster, Entomologist

EASTERN SPRUCE GALL APHID

The number one pest of Norway spruce in our area is the eastern spruce gall aphid (ESGA). This tiny sucking insect is difficult to see, however its damage in the form of pineapple-shaped galls on the spruce branches is very visible. The galls as pictured are about 1 inch long.

The ESGA has an unusual life cycle. Eggs are layed in early spring at the base of a bud. Within ten days they hatch and the nymphs begin sucking from new needles. After a few days they move to feed at the bases of the needles. This feeding causes irregular stem growth, forming a gall that encloses the feeding nymphs and protects them. In late summer the galls open and the nymphs crawl out. Shedding their skins they transform into winged egg-layers. This stage disperses the species. Each female lays 20 to 50 eggs which hatch into the overwintering form.

ESGA is susceptible to sprays in early spring as buds open and nymphs are hatching and during the early fall after the nymphs have left the galls. Good spray coverage and the incorporation of a spreader-sticker in the spray solution are important for satisfactory control.

On smaller trees with light infestations, prune out galls before they open. Right now is the time for this pruning.

DeLOREAN ON DISPLAY

At Baker Dealership. Its list price is $26,150. But if you want one of the 20,000 that will be made this year, you will probably have to pay more.

After years of waiting, the DeLorean, a highly-touted deluxe sports car, designed and created by former General Motors vice president John Z. DeLorean and assembled in Ireland, has arrived in this country.

Was the wait worth it? Edward Baker of Baker Pontiac-Buick on Route 206, one of 370 dealers in the country who agreed to invest $25,000 in stock in the company to become a DeLorean dealer, reports the response has been tremendous. Buyers are paying over list, he said.

Baker said that he will receive 50 DeLorean cars a year, has four for his September allotment and the only floor model he had has been sold. He adds that he has deposits, mostly from doctors and professional people, for 15 more.

The most noticeable characteristics of the DeLorean are its stainless steel body, low profile and gull-winged doors. After a 100-mile test drive with his wife, Linda, Baker commented, "It handles like a dream. It runs well. It does anything you want it to do — within the realm of reason." He said that the car, powered by a Volvo V6 engine mounted in the rear, has an EPA rating of 19 miles per gallon in the city and 30 on the highway.

"The ride was fantastic," echoes Linda Baker. "No bumps, no road noise. It was smooth as silk. People would turn their heads and stare at us and you'd think they were going to have an accident going down the road."

Other standard features on the DeLorean include air conditioning, power windows, adjustable steering wheel, electrical door mirrors and locks, tinted glass, a multi-speaker stereo system, and five speed transmission. The only option, says Baker, is an automatic transmission.

With its gleaming stainless steel body, the DeLorean looks as if it were going a hundred standing still on the showroom floor.

"It's impervious to rust and corrosion. It can't split like fibre glass," said Baker. It's the only car you can buy today that you can keep on the road for 20 years. It's unique."

HOW-TO, FOR WOMEN

Talk is Scheduled. Women who are thinking about starting their own businesses are invited to the next meeting of the Central Region of the New Jersey Association of Women Business Owners, to be held at the Somerville Inn, Route 22, at 6 p.m. Monday, September 14.

The speaker, Dave Kantes, a vice-president of Chase Manhattan Bank, will talk about setting up a new business, financing and capitalizing it, learning about the business and financial world and understanding the lender's perspective. A question and answer period will follow.

The Association of Women Business Owners provides a voice for women owners of business, encouraging communication and providing technical assistance. Reservations for the meeting may be made by calling 201-647-0751.

LAW FIRM MOVES

Brener, Wallack & Hill. The law firm of Brener, Wallack and Hill has moved from 15 Chambers across the street to new offices in the 2-4 Chambers building. The firm conducts a general civil practice, specializing in land use, corporate law, real estate, taxation, estates, commercial and construction industry law, and litigation.

Principals of the firm have announced that Timothy J. Korzun has joined Gulick D. Hirsch, Gerard H. Hanson, Joseph Mahon and James Murphy as an associate. Mr. Korzun received his law degree from Rutgers last year, was editor of the Rutgers Law Review and is a member of the New Jersey and New York Bar Associations.

Michael J. Masse has joined the firm as comptroller. Formerly with Princeton Bank, Mr. Masse holds a BA in business administration from Rochester Institute of Technology and is studying for the master's degree from Rider College.

The law firm's principals are Harry Brener, Henry A. Hill Jr., Michael D. Masanoff and Alan M. Wallack.

NEW CLIENT

For Advertising Firm. G&C Advertising and Marketing, Inc., has been chosen as the agency of record for Universal Fragrance Corporation of South Plainfield.

Universal, manufacturer of cosmetics, fragrances, toiletries, and personal care and household products, has assigned G&C to handle production and placement of its journal advertising, collateral literature and public relations programs.

PERSONNEL NOTES

Dr. Herbert I. Abelson, president of Response Analysis Corporation, has announced four senior staff promotions.

James H. Fouss, Pineknoll Drive, Lawrenceville, has been elected executive vice president. He joined Response Analysis in 1970 and has been a senior vice president and treasurer of the corporation for the past two years. Mr. Fouss has a masters' degree in Communications Research from Boston University and is a past president of the Central New Jersey chapter of the American Association for Public Opinion Research (AAPOR).

Charlotte Slider of Hopewell has been named senior vice president. She has been with Response Analysis since 1969, where she has been a vice president and director of interviewing and data services. Ms. Slider has attended Mount Holyoke College in Massachusetts and Rutgers University, majoring in statistics.

Diane Schrayer of Princeton has been named a vice president. She has been with Response Analysis since 1969, most recently as a research director specializing in consumer research. Ms. Schrayer is an active member of AAPOR and recently delivered papers on the subject of food and nutrition labeling to the Institute of Food Technologists and the Center for Professional Advancement.

Gary Johnson of Plainsboro has ben promoted to research director. He joined Response Analysis in 1978, and has been involved in studies requiring experimental research designs in a wide variety of subject areas.

Mr. Johnson has a MBA degree in marketing research from Boston University.

Dennis Sullivan has been appointed a senior account executive for Personality Dynamics, Inc., a Princeton-based consulting firm specializing in the selection and evaluation of personnel.

Formerly the national accounts manager for InterRoyal Corporation, he has also been director of Marketing and sales for the S. S. T. Company, U.S. general manager of sales for The Howard Johnson's Company, and an account executive for Trans-World Airlines. He lives on Staten Island and expects to move to Princeton.

Chamber Asks Advice

What should Princeton's Chamber of Commerce be doing? How should it go about doing what it does?

Round-table forums on these and related questions will be the feature of a luncheon meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the Princeton Area to be held at the Nassau Inn, Thursday, September 10. Reservations should be made through the Chamber office, 921-7676.

Members, citizens, officials from the 13 communities served by the Chamber and all others interested in the Chamber's work, are invited to attend.

Suggestions made during the discussions will be reviewed by the board of directors at a day-long retreat in September. Ideas will be incorporated into the long-range and short-range objectives to be prepared by the Chamber's strategic planning committee. The end result will be the 1982 Program of Work.

The president of the Chamber is A.C. Reeves Hicks. The executive director is C. Elien Hodges.

A memorial service will be held Saturday at 3 at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street. Memorial contributions may be made to the Senior Resource Center, Spruce Circle.

Arrangements are under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Robert H. Engelke, 93, of 207 Washington Road, Penns Neck, died August 29 in Princeton Medical Center.

Mr. Engelke was born in Dutch Neck and lived in Penns Neck for 54 years. He retired in 1955 as an accountant with Hayden Chemical after 15 years of service. He was employed by Princeton University for 20 years and also by the West Windsor Municipal Court as a violations clerk from 1953 to 1968.

Husband of the late Ida W. Engelke, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Louise Connolly and Esther Engelke, both of West Windsor; a granddaughter, Mrs. Susan C. Parris of Ewing Township, and a great-grandson.

The service was scheduled to be held this Wednesday at 2 in Princeton Baptist Church, Penns Neck Circle, the Rev. Daniel B. England, pastor, and the Rev. David W. Allen co-officiating.

Burial will be in Penns Neck Cemetery.

Lulu T. Briggs, 81, of 27 Heathcote Road, Kingston, died August 31 at home.

Miss Briggs was born in Kingston and lived there all her life. She was a member of the Kingston Fire Company Auxiliary and an active member of Kingston Presbyterian Church.

The service will be held Thursday at 2 at the Mather-Hodge Funeral Home, the Rev. John Heinsohn, pastor of Kingston Presbyterian Church, officiating. Burial will be in Kingston Cemtery. Visitation will be one hour before the service.

In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to the Kingston First Aid and Rescue Squad.

Mabel Earle Rightmire, a Princeton University retired secretary, died August 25 at her home, 1352 Georges Road, South Brunswick. She was 93.

Mrs. Rightmire retired in 1955 and had lived in South Brunswick since 1912. She was a member of the Soroptimist International of Princeton, the Princeton Professional and Businesswomen's Club, the Princeton Chapter of Deborah and the Princeton Medical Center Auxiliary.

Widow of Dr. Voorhees A. Rightmire, she is survived by several nieces.

The service was held at a Cranbury funeral home, Dr. Ronald J. Sloan of the First Presbyterian Church of Dayton officiating. Burial was in Dayton Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to the Monmouth Junction First Aid Squad, Monmouth Junction, 08852.

MEMORIAL SERVICE SET

For Thomas Carver. A memorial service for Thomas R. Carver, who died on August 8, will be held in the Princeton University Chapel on Friday, September 25, at 3 p.m.

Dr. Carver was a professor of physics at Princeton University, where he had been a member of the faculty since 1954. He was 52 years old.

United Presbyterian Director of Peacemaking Assesses Church's Efforts in Challenging Area

"We believe that these times, so full of peril and tragedy for the human family, present a special call for obedience to our Lord, the Prince of Peace. The Spirit is calling us to life out of death."

With these words, the 192nd General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church adopted "Peacemaking: The Believers' Calling" in May, 1980 at its meeting in Detroit. The following December, the Rev. Richard Killmer of Mt. Lucas Road, was appointed Director of the Peacemaking Project for the 2.4-million member denomination.

What does it mean to be the director of a peacemaking project? Peacemaking for whom? and where? and how?

Mr. Killmer answers these questions by stepping back to 1976 when the 187th General Assembly created a task force to "reassess the concept of peacemaking and the direction of the country's foreign policy in the light of biblical and confessional faith."

It was a year after the end of the U.S. involvement in Vietnam, and the country was suffering from loss of prestige and power. There was a new awareness that the emerging nations would no longer accept the continued domination of the developed nations and of widespread hunger and oppression across the globe. There was also a growing concern over the escalation in nuclear weapons and the fear that any miscalculation could annihilate humanity.

Worldwide Pressures. World events made these issues all the more urgent and complex in the years during which the task force, initially under the direction of Eugene Carson Blake, considered its mission.

"Peacemaking: The Believers' Calling," was a response to a growing sense of urgency among Christians in this country and to the concern of churches all over the world. It was also a response to overtures from 31 presbyteries, including the New Brunswick Presbytery to which Princeton belongs.

According to Mr. Killmer, "Peacemaking: The Believers' Calling" differs from most recommendations sent by a task force to the General Assembly in that was not a statement or position paper adopted by the Assembly on behalf of the church. Instead, he says, it challenged all Presbyterians to become peacemakers.

"Peacemaking means the restoration of God's intention of shalom, the wholeness and health of his creation," Mr. Killmer explains. "Blessed are the peacemakers for they shall be called the children of God."

Peacemaking a Priority. The church-wide peacemaking emphasis should include elements of worship, study, service, consciousness-raising, witness advocacy, leadership development and ecumenical and coalition cooperation. Individual congregations and their sessions (the governing body in a Presbyterian church) were asked to engage in a program of study and action for peacemaking.

Moving up the Presbyterian organizational structure, presbyteries and regional synods were requested to establish task forces or committees on peacemaking. Seminaries and other agencies were required to examine their current programs and explore how they might more effectively support the peacemaking emphasis.

THE REV. RICHARD KILLMER, Director of the Peacemaking Project for the UPCUS, is a 1968 graduate of Princeton Theological Seminary who took part in the civil rights and the anti-Vietnam War movements at seminary. After ordination, he worked for Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam and later as director of a special ministry set up by the national Council of Churches to the Vietnam generation. His 10 years with the NCCC also included working on the Domestic Hunger Project and the Child and Family Justice Project.

As Mr. Killmer puts it, "Presbyterians need to work for peace wherever they are, in their families, workplaces, congregations, town, cities, the nation. Peacemaking becomes a life-style, making it more broadly based than just the arms race or the Middle East crises.

"It becomes not just something talked about by the crazies on the periphery, but something integral to the life of the church."

Nassau Presbyterian Church's involvement in an arms race conference held in its sanctuary last September and again this September is an aspect of peacemaking. So is the efforts of an Eastern Kentucky pastor who is committed to ending the generational disputes between mountain families in his area who are still carrying guns and grudges against one another. Some church pastors are equipping themselves in the skills of conflict management, Mr. Killmer says.

Role As Enabler. His own role as Director of the Peacemaking Project created as a result of the General Assembly's action is to help Presbyterians think through the theology behind peacemaking, to become educated in the social and political issues and to develop skills to enable them to become peacemakers wherever they are.

This has involved a great deal of travelling across the country. More than half of the 152 presbyteries in the U.S. have established a peace task force or committee, and Mr. Killmer's job is to support their efforts. He is encouraged to find that the Presbyterian church in Larned, Kansas, a region of grain farmers, is studying "Peacemaking: The Believer's Calling" and by action of the session the pastor makes peace the topic of his sermon once a month.

A church in LaPorte, Colo., reports that "peacemaking has become a part of everything we do, from sharing the bread and wine in communion, to educating our kids, to outreach." An Oakland, Calif., church has established a peace center and is supporting it financially, and a Cleveland pastor has left his parish at a big drop in salary to work within the presbytery peacemaking as a priority.

When the General Assembly created peacemaking as a priority, it also set up the mechanism for a special offering to be taken on World Communion Day in the fall. One quarter of the offering was to go to the presbytery for its peacemaking efforts, one quarter to remain in the congregation for peacemaking and one half to the Program Agency and the Peacemaking Project. The offering the first year, 1980, totaled just over $250,000.

As a further step, the 193rd General Assembly, meeting last May in Houston, endorsed a bilateral nuclear arms freeze and asked every synod, presbytery and congregation to study the terms of the freeze and consider endorsing it themselves.

In Mr. Killmer's view, the freeze is "clearly one of the best tools for stopping and reversing the arms race. My impression is, with the development of the cruise missile and the option of the MX missile in this country, the Russians are anxious for the freeze before they have to put strains on their economy to develop and deploy comparable weapons. A higher percentage of their gross national product goes to the military than ours."

The Ewing Presbyterian Church is the first church in this area to endorse the freeze. That church has also scheduled a series of Sunday morning meetings this fall on the biblical and theological background of peacemaking at which Mr. Killmer will be one of the speakers.

Eight of the 15 regional synods have endorsed the freeze, with the Northeast Synod, consisting of 19 presbyteries in New Jersey, New York and New England, as one of them. By the time the 194th General Assembly rolls around in Hartford next spring, Mr. Killmer hopes that 1,000 congregations, one-eighth of the total, in a significant variety of places, plus 80 presbyteries and all 15 synods will have endorsed the freeze. This, he thinks, would mean a show of real strength in terms of trying to reverse present government policies.

Meanwhile, the southern Presbyterian church, the more conservative Presbyterian Church of the U.S.A., also adopted "Peacemaking: The Believers' Calling" at its General Assembly in May, 1981. Other denominations which have made peacemaking a priority are the United Church of Christ, the American Baptist Church and the United Methodist Church. Mr. Killmer believes the next General Convention of the Episcopal Church may also follow suit.

For as the General Asembly affirmed, "Peacemaking is not merely one activity among many that believers may choose to ignore. At this critical moment in history, peacemaking is the central activity of all believers individually and corporately."

WHY, IT'S JUST LIKE HOME! You went to Johnson Park School, Principal Norma Gumbiner welcomed you at the door. You're transferred to Community Park because Johnson Park was closed, and Principal Norma Gumbiner welcomes you at the door—because she was transferred there, too. Other JP pupils are at Riverside.

School Opening

The school is also much larger than JP, with bigger classrooms that can be shaped into double or triple rooms — teachers are already planning to do this for new programs.

Mrs. Gumbiner plans to welcome 315 kids — 348 were projected, and as a veteran teacher, she knows more than those 315 will appear as tbe autumn moves along.

What really surprises her are — all the stoves! Teachers have apparently used cooking to teach math., to learn about foreign cultures, in the program called "Technology for Children," in units on nutrition. It could be a weight-threatening situation, she thinks.

Seven non-tenured teachers who had to be dismissed last year in the complicated maneuver called "riffing" (RIF: "reduction in force") will be back in the classroom.

They are high school biology teacher Dorothy Baum; Middle School classroom teacher Robert Copeland; Community Park classroom teacher Mary Federico; Middle School classroom teacher Ronald Smowton; high school English teacher Leslie Turbeville; Middle School learning center teacher Evelyn Turner and Middle School psychologist Karen Wedam.

Dedication ceremonies of the "new" high school will begin at 8 in the foyer of the new gymnasium, move on to the refurbished and refurnished auditorium, continue with a guided tour by students, and conclude in the library conference room with refreshments.

Trent Norris, president of the PHS Student Council will be master of ceremonies, presiding over a program of remarks by Principal John Sakala, Superintendent Paul Houston and school board president Dale Madden. All have promised brevity.

The school's three-screen slide show in praise of the PHS curriculum will be shown in the auditorium. Prepared by staff members Marianne Hartmann, Herbert Highfield and Kennetb Bowers, it has background music by the PHS band and orchestra and a cast of students and teachers drawn from people who were at the school last year.

If you get to school by bus, you already know how. You have received in the mail your bus pass with school, grade and bus stop. If there has been a "significant" change for you — that is, if you now have to walk, where once you rode, you have a walkers' card. If you receive no card at all, your situation is unchanged.

If you go to the Cbapin or Hun private schools, you've already had the news: you won't be bused tbis year; instead, your parents will receive the $325 maximum allowed by the state. The public schools aren't busing these two because the schools have too few children and it would cost too much money.

The new system was developed with a Federal grant obtained by the Mercer County Superintendent of Schools to set up a county-wide, computerized program for transportation. Educational Testing Service was successful bidder for the program, known as TRIPS (Transportation Information Planning Service).

Two things happened to make significant changes in transportation for Princeton: Johnson Park was closed, and the school board changed the "hazardous" designations of several streets. For example, high school students used to be bused from the Stuart Road area. They no longer will be.

There are other places regarded as "hairy areas" by transportation co-ordinator Ralph Bennett. He points to Duffield Place, near the place where Bayard Lane was cut off. Those children, attending Community Park, must either make their way along a steep bank to the crossing guard at Birch and Bayard, or go round-about to the jug-handle, catching the brief green light to cross Route 206.

In the past, some Middle School children living on Prospect were bused because they lived over two miles from school. But if they cross the Princeton Kingston Road, it's under two miles — no busing.

The county's program will end January 1. Mr. Bennett would like to see the school system pick it up, but he advises study to see whether it would be worth the cost. He himself will retire April 1 and will not be replaced, as such. His assistant, Judy Woitcheck, has already been upgraded in position and salary and will assume this duties.

One value in the program, he points out, is that computer print-outs provide a great deal of valuable information, like the number of Borough or Township children, the number of children in a given school, lists by grade and school, and so on.

Incidentally, it cost about $200 to mail out all tbose cards. Each one was in an envelope, and went through the mails for 18 cents. ETS did not print the information on postcards.

School Lunches 25 to 30 Cents More Due to Federal, State Subsidy Cuts

School lunches will cost 25 and 30 cents more than they did a year ago, as a result of reduced subsidies described by Barbara Walsh, director of food services, as "the most drastic cuts ever made in Federal and state school lunch subsidies." The cuts are among the budget economies just signed into law by President Ronald Reagan.

Prices for the coming year will be as follows: Elementary school: $1.10, up from 80 cents; Middle school: $1.15, up from 85; High School: $1.15, up from 90.

Although children will pay more, Ms. Walsh explained, the schools will not be receiving more. Most of the increase will compensate for the loss in cash and actual food subsidies.

For example, last year's 80-cent elementary school lunch had a 43.5 percent subsidy, bringing the total to $1.23½ cents. This year's $1.10 price has a subsidy of only 23.8 percent, for a total of $1.33 and eight-tenths.

"The actual increase in our revenue, therefore, will be ten cents, she explained. "For the high school, there will be only a five-cent increase in revenue Increases will go toward off-setting increases in food, labor and other costs."

Lunches will be available free, or at a reduced price of 40 cents to children whose families cannot afford to pay for them Applications may be obtained at the office of any school.
